Funeral Party Delayed In Leaving London—Some Confusion In Plans

WINDSOR, Eng., Jan. 28.—Into his great castle for the last time rode good King George V. today. They buried Britain's beloved "sea king" beneath the flagstones of ancient Windsor to the accompaniment of sailors' prayers, muffled drums, and mourning music of England, old and new.

It was made even sweeter by the tears of sorrow of his people, bidding him farewell.

His son and successor, Edward VIII, brought home the "sailor king." The new king wore an admiral's uniform, as his father used to wear.

George V went to his rest through a great forest of his people, jammed between the purpled mourning mass of London lining the pathway of his funeral cortege through the capital's streets, and through smaller crowds gathering along the hilly road from the Windsor station up to the aged walls of Windsor Castle.

Windsor Is Silent

Windsor, Eng., Jan. 28.—A somber silence, punctuated solemnly by the booming of minute guns, fell upon Windsor today as the funeral train of George V arrived here from London and the slow procession to St. George's chapel was started.

PA NEW OBSERVES

One change is noted in the western Pennsylvania district in the new bulletin of the Pennsylvania highway system for the period ending February 6. The road between Ambridge and Rochester is closed to traffic. A detour, 9.4 miles in extent, is in effect, via the Ohio river bridge at Ambridge to Allegheny and Monaca.

Pa New notes that the Neshannock creek is almost frozen solid. When the ice goes out from the previous cold spell, it removed the rip-rap dam at the foot of Croton Hill, and the water has been moving so swiftly that it did not freeze over until last night. There are still a few open stretches of water in spots.

The kiddies will welcome the advent of warmer weather. Although there is plenty of snow for coasting, the weather has been too cold for enthusiasts to enjoy it.

Mile Long Funeral Procession For King Moves Across London

By H. K. REYNOLDS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Jan. 28.—As the first knell of Britain's day of mourning sounded from Big Ben at 9:30 o'clock, reverberating through the vaulted arches of Westminster Hall, the king, queen, and other members of the royal family today paid their last private farewell to King George before they gave him back to the nation for his last journey through his capital.

Outside the rain fell intermittently, splashing the uniforms of the thousands of troops and the two million or more of the citizenry gathered to pay homage to the dead monarch.

King Edward and Queen Mary led the members of the family and foreign kings, queens, and princes in arriving at the ancient hall where the king lay four days, shortly before the body was taken away in a magnificent funeral procession to Paddington station for burial at Windsor.

Nation Continues To Shiver In Zero Cold

(International News Service)

Government forecaster J. R. Lloyd of Chicago qualified his "fair and continued cold" prediction today with the cheerful comment, "but this can't go on forever."

Nevertheless the nation, from the eastern slopes of the Rockies to the eastern seaboard, continued to shiver as the bitter cold wave which has prevailed for a week relaxed its icy grip but a trifle.

Sub-zero temperatures were recorded from Montana to Ohio yesterday and last night, with the Dakotas, Minnesota, Iowa and Illinois suffering the most.

Three additional deaths in Chicago sent the death toll climbing to 18, brought the state toll to 37.

The government forecast predicted slight relief for the middle west today with temperatures rising slightly. But Lloyd tempered the forecast with the clipped comment, "There is nothing to indicate anything like normal temperatures for the rest of the week."

Meteorologists' doleful predictions indicated an appalling death toll will be recorded. Already, it is estimated, more than 300 lives have been lost due to the frigid weather.

Authorities Probe Shooting In Home At El Paso, Texas, Likely Suicide

(International News Service)

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 28.—Authorities today investigated the death of Paul R. Forbes, 75, an uncle of President Roosevelt.

Forbes was found shot to death in the kitchen of his six room apartment here last night by his nurse and secretary, Mrs. Ina B. Wright. Forbes' wife, who is abroad, Mrs. Wright said, is a sister of Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt, mother of the president.

Coroner M. V. Wari said today he believed Forbes had committed suicide. He was shot through the roof of the mouth with a pistol. The weapon was beside his body.

M. J. Donnelly Purchases Business Block On Public Square, It Is Announced

Announcement is made today of one of the largest downtown realty transactions of some years in this city.

The business block on the Public Square, owned by Gen. J. L. Myland, a former resident of this city, but now residing in Los Angeles, California, has been sold to M. J. Donnelly, of this city.

The building is the structure now occupied by The Outlet Company, located at No. 7, East Washington street.

General Myland erected the building some twenty years or more ago, while he was an active business man in this city, and has retained ownership up to the present time.

Vigorous Protest On Transporting Of Olympic Members

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—A vigorous protest against transportation of American athletes to Germany for participation in the Olympic games in German ships was registered with Daniel Ferris, secretary of the A. A. U. today by Rep. William Citron (D) of Connecticut.

Citron declared that Avery Brundage, president of the A. A. U., was responsible for the use of German vessels to the exclusion of American ships. Citron inferred that Brundage's sojourn in Germany last winter, when he conferred with Nazi leaders regarding arrangements for this winter's and next summer's games, resulted in use of these ships.

Greek Freighter Is In Distress

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Disaster today hovered above the Greek freighter Antonis G. Lemos which wallowed with crippled steering gear 200 miles northeast of Bermuda.

The New York Coast Guard's wireless caught the vessel's appeal to the Canadian freighter Lady Rodney which was steaming toward the stricken vessel.

"Suggest you head our direction more quickly."

The urgency apparent in those few words indicated to observers that the Lemos' plight was desperate.

NEW RECORD

(International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Probably more persons participated, directly or indirectly, in the funeral of King George today than in any other in history. Two million or more watched the funeral procession; millions more attended services all over the world, and untold others listened to a world-wide radio broadcast that went to America before dawn and to the South Pacific late at night.

Radio commentaries on the progress of the stupendous cortege flashed through the air in at least seven languages—English, French, German, Spanish, Flemish, Dutch, and Japanese.

Italian Club Building Afire Early This Morning, Volunteers Respond

Fire of unknown origin destroyed about $500 worth of furniture and fixtures in the Italian Club of West Pittsburgh at 4:45 o'clock today. The fire occurred in a back room from the furnace and apparently there was no short in the electric wiring.

James Germaine first noticed the fire when he arose to take care of his furnace. He immediately called the fire department and the volunteers responded in a few minutes.

Through the efforts of the volunteers the building was saved but the damage will run to approximately $500.

Death Removes Successor To Late Huey Long

Gov. O. K. Allen Of Louisiana Is Suddenly Stricken This Morning

THROAT HEMORRHAGE CAUSE OF DEATH

Allen Had Just Been Elected To Fill Out The Unexpired Term Of Long

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 28.—White-haired O. K. Allen, governor of Louisiana and leader of the powerful political party that the late Sen. Huey P. Long had built, died at the governor's mansion here this morning at 10:40 a. m.

Dr. Clarence Lorio, chief physician, said death was a result of a hemorrhage of the throat. Gov. Allen was first stricken early this morning when a blood vessel burst in his throat. Death followed several hours later.

Doctors expressed the belief that the recent strenuous political campaign in which Allen was elected to fill out the unexpired senate term of Sen. Long, contributed to the cause of his death.

Today's stroke came suddenly. The governor was preparing to leave the mansion for the state Capitol when a vessel in his throat suddenly burst. He fell to the floor unconscious. A staff of physicians was immediately summoned and an unsuccessful effort was made to stem the flow of blood in his throat.

Governor Allen's death leaves Louisiana without any senator designate to fill Long's unexpired term.

Dr. Lorio, who was one of the physicians in attendance with the late Sen. Long when he died in the Lady of the Lake Sanitarium last September from a bullet wound, explained that every effort had been made to stem the flow of blood (Continued On Page Two)

Congressmen See New Problems

Pensions For Widows And Dependents To Come Before Congress Soon

MEASURE HAS BEEN SUBMITTED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL, International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The next major veterans problem before congress will be the question of pensions for widows and dependents of World War veterans, congressional leaders in pension legislation, said today.

In preparation for the anticipated demand, Chairman Casque (D) of South Carolina, of the house pensions committee, has prepared a bill to make uniform all future widows and orphan pensions.

The measure, which would include pensions for the widows and orphans of World War veterans at an estimated cost of $30,000,000 a year, has been submitted to the veterans administration for consideration.

During the last two years congress restored Spanish-American War pensions and also granted pensions to a limited class of World War veterans widows. The pensions were voted the widows of veterans who suffered service-connected disabilities but died from other causes.

There are also bills pending in congress to increase the pensions of widows of Indian and other wars. Action on any of them has been postponed because of the tremendous governmental expenditures for general relief.

"The next fight will be for pensions for World War veterans widows and dependents, now that the bonus fight is over," said Casque. "Our present pension laws are haphazard. Different pensions are given to widows of veterans of different wars. I have introduced a bill to make all future pensions uniform, dependent upon the age of the pensioner."

Despite the fact that the Croton car line has two cars on during the busy hours of the day, the 8 a. m. car is considerably crowded these chilly mornings, and some passengers are quite dubious as to whether they will be picked up or not.

However, the fifteen minute service is greatly needed on the Croton line, especially during the winter months.

A resident of Winter avenue was surprised to see an owl perched on a vine outside of the home next door, yesterday. It was enjoying a little sleaze and didn't appear to be annoyed by the attention it attracted.

One of the lady members of the Pa News family was out driving the other day and saw lots of lost automobiles equipped entirely in green glass. A bit surprised at this porter style, she in the proper respect style, inquired of her editor, and of others, today her face is a bit red for she discovered, on another drive, that it was all an optical illusion. Probably something she "et."

The story goes round and around and comes out here. It seems that a little West Side girl received a nice, red sled from Santa a year ago. Her father took her sled riding very time there was any snow. Suddenly the sled disappeared and remained missing until the young miss went to a dark nook in the cellar last week and retrieved it. She nonchalantly explained that she had gotten awfully bored by sled riding a year ago and that her father seemed to want to go all the time!

Pa News observes that the license number of a local ambulance is 6000K, and we presume it would be triple OK to ride in, if a fellow needed its services very badly.

Reports Inquiry Made About Money By Fisch's Friend

Revelation From Havana May Have Bearing On Hauptmann Case

By RICHARD ARMSTRONG, International News Service Staff Correspondent

HAVANA, Jan. 28.—Dr. Arturo Gomez Alfonso, president of Cuba's Unionist party, today asserted that prior to the arrest of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, a reputed German friend of Isidor Fisch, Post-humous alibi for Hauptmann, had displayed to him a letter signed by Fisch, and simultaneously inquired concerning possibility of circulating marked bills in Cuba.

Alfonso explained he was revealing the episode at this time because of the possible connection with the Lindbergh case. Mainstay of Hauptmann's defense has been his claim that ransom bills found at his Bronx home were left with him by Fisch, tubercular little furrier, before he sailed for Germany where he died a few months after his arrival.

Alfonso further voiced belief that Fisch's unidentified friend is still here. He has seen him intermittently both before and after Hauptmann's arrest, he said, and last saw him about two months ago.

The letter was shown to him, Alfonso stated, in the German consulate here by a German woman name he does not know. He said the signature was both written and typed, but he did not remember whether the letter was written in English or German. Alfonso speaks neither language.

Alfonso said the German approached him some time before Hauptmann's arrest and asked him, as a lawyer, whether bills marked "Lindbergh" had been circulated in the United States could be circulated in Cuba.

JUNIOR CHAMBER MAPS '36 PLANS

Division Heads Named By President Smith At Regular Meeting

An enthusiastic spirit prevailed last night as New Castle's Junior Chamber of Commerce met in The Castleton to organize its activity program for 1936.

The attendance, boosted by a group of new members, was the best of any chamber session of the past year.

President Herbert Smith presided throughout the evening and announced his director assignments for the year.

Gus Sanfilippo was named head of the membership division of the chamber; Lee Houk was appointed head of the civic service division; D. D. Young, industrial division; and Clarence E. Reiter, national division.

Each of the divisions will shortly announce committees which will handle the various phases of the chamber's affairs.

Within a short time the organization expects to affiliate with the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The group last night discussed business of various kinds and approved the elimination of the 35-year maximum age limit for members. Persons can now be above that age limit and belong.

The organization's board of directors will meet on Monday evening, February 2, to complete its committee organization.

Says Truck Parked Without Any Lights

L. E. Pyle's Car Hit It And He Wants Archie Consla To Pay Damages

L. E. Pyle of 478 Neshannock avenue, has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against Archie Consla, in which he asks $82.75 damages to his car which struck a truck driven by Consla while it was parked on Neshannock avenue.

The plaintiff claims that there is no ordinance permitting a motor vehicle to park at an angle on Neshannock avenue. It is claimed that Consla truck, was so parked, the rear wheels being 18 inches from the curb, and the bed of the truck extending into the roadway.

It was 11:20 at night when Pyle was driving down the street and struck the truck. He alleges that there were no lights on the truck at the time and that the defendant was negligent in not having lights. The amount of damages asked is what it is alleged to have cost to repair the Pyle car.

and have them in the various post offices ready to meet the demands of the veterans.

The veterans will be required to identify themselves by their fingerprints, and the serial number of their Adjusted Service Certificate. The military services have a complete file of the fingerprints of all World War veterans.

In addition to the bureau of engraving, the veterans administration and the treasury, the secret service will also be called into service to guard against counterfeit bonds.

The treasury will ask for an appropriation of $2,500,000 to carry out its part of the mandate, while it is expected the veterans administration will require about $5,000,000.

Need 3000 More Employees

The veterans administration will require from 2,500 to 3,000 additional employees to record the approximately 38,000,000 separate $50 bonds that be issued and to make about 7,000,000 distinct interest calculations on the service certificates. They will be employed from the civil service rolls.

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans affairs, got the first batch of the bonus applications into the mails today. They will be poured into the mail hopper as fast as they come off the presses until they are distributed in every agency in the United States and its territories.

Distribution of the applications is being made through the administration's regional offices, the veterans organization and other bodies in contact with veterans. Members of congress will be supplied blanks to furnish constituents.

Application Blanks

The application statement reads: "I hereby make application to the administrator for the settlement of any amount due and payable to me on Adjusted Service Certificate No. Amount $..... which was issued to me during the World War, who was born at and who may be further identified by No. Date of discharge I hereby certify that the above-described Adjusted Service Certificate."

The applicant must be identified by a postmaster, any commissioned officer of the military services, a member of congress, an officer of a veterans' organization, or any administrator of the same.

The veteran must smudge the fingerprints of the four fingers of his right hand on his application in front of the officer identifying him for his bonus.

DEATH REMOVES SUCCESSOR TO LATE HUEY LONG

Washington, Jan. 28.—The sudden death of Governor O. K. Allen of Louisiana today shocked official Washington particularly Capitol Hill, where he was slated to enter the U. S. Senate.

While Gov. Allen was not well known here, his expected advent as a senator was awaited with interest. Senator John H. Overton (D) of Louisiana, whom Gov. Allen was to have joined in the senate said:

"The announcement of the death of Gov. O. K. Allen is a severe shock to me. I held him in the very highest esteem as a citizen and a public servant. He gave splendid and painstaking service to his state. His loss is irreparable."

You'd think conservative Democrats were marrying Roosevelt. They promise to love and honor him if he will change to suit them.

Every town has a prominent citizen who thinks he is "good pay" because he seldom waits two years after payment is due.

Red Cross Chapter Asks Veterans Bureau For Blanks And Information

Secretary Orville Potter, of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, has written to the United States Veterans administration for information relative to the bonus which was passed by the Senate over the president's veto Monday, making it a law.

Application has been made for forms on which veterans may apply for their bonus, and as soon as these are received, the veterans here will be notified.

It is expected that it will take several days, however, before an application form is agreed upon, and it will be some little time before they can be printed.

Veterans should not be in any great hurry, however, Secretary Potter believes, as the bonus is not expected to be available for payment until next June, and it is expected to take a great deal of time figuring out interest payments on loans made prior to January 1931.

GLASS PIONEER DIES

KANE, Pa., Jan. 28.—The glass industry today lost one of its pioneering leaders with the death of B. N. McCoy, 93, retired industrialist. He died of infirmities due to old age.

McCoy, who started his extensive glass business with a plant at Blossburg, Pa., in 1867, established the first glass factory in Kane in 1891. He later built similar plants at Findlay, O., and Covington, Mt. Jewett and Hazelhurst, Pa.

PENSION BATTLE COMES NEXT

Congressmen See New Problems

Pensions For Widows And Dependents To Come Before Congress Soon

MEASURE HAS BEEN SUBMITTED

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The next major veterans' problems before congress will be the question of pensions for widows and dependents of World War veterans, congressional leaders in pension legislation, said today.

In preparation for the anticipated demand, Chairman Gasque (D) of South Carolina, of the house pensions committee, has prepared a bill to make uniform all future widows and orphan pensions.

The measure, which would include pensions for the widows and orphans of World War veterans at an estimated cost of $30,000,000 a year, has been submitted to the veterans administration for consideration.

During the last two years congress restored Spanish-American War pensions and also granted pensions to a limited class of World War veterans widows. The pensions were voted the widows of veterans who suffered service-connected disabilities but died from other causes.

There are also bills pending in congress to increase the pensions of widows of Indian and other wars. Action on most of them has been postponed because of the tremendous governmental expenditures for general relief.

"The next fight will be for pensions for World War veterans widows and dependents, now that the bonus fight is over," said Gasque. "Our present pension laws are haphazard. Different pensions are given to widows of veterans of different wars. I have introduced a bill to make all future pensions uniform, dependent upon the age of the pensioner."

Your Income Tax In Brief

FORMS FOR MAKING RETURNS
Forms for filing returns of income for 1935 have been sent to persons who filed returns last year. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve a taxpayer of his obligation to file his return and pay the tax on time, or on or before March 16 if the return is made on the calendar year basis, as is the case with most individuals.

Forms may be obtained upon request, written or personal, from the offices of collectors of internal revenue and deputy collectors. Persons whose net income for 1935 was derived chiefly from salary or wages and was not in excess of $5,000 should make their returns on form 1040A. Persons whose net income was in excess of $5,000, or, regardless of amount, was derived from a business, profession, rents or sale of property, are required to use a larger form, 1040. Failure to use the proper form presents difficulties to both the taxpayer and the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Therefore, it is emphasized that a taxpayer engaged in a business or profession from which he derived a net income of less than $5,000 is required to use the larger form.

The return must be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer has his legal residence or principal place of business on or before midnight of March 16, 1936. The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return or in four equal installments, due on or before March 16, June 15, September 15, and December 15.

A Grave Mistake for a Mother to Make

GIVING CHILD UNKNOWN REMEDIES WITHOUT ASKING DOCTOR FIRST

GIVING your child a medicine or remedy you don't know all about — without asking your family doctor first — is a bad risk for any mother to take.

Doctors and child authorities say health, and sometimes life itself, depends on this.

So — when you're offered a "bargain" in a remedy for your child, ask your doctor before

Despite the fact that the Croton car line has two cars on during the busy hours of the day, the 8 a. m. car is considerably crowded these chilly mornings, and some passengers are quite dubious as to whether they will be picked up or not. However, the fifteen minute service is greatly needed on the Croton line especially through the winter months.

A resident of Winter avenue was surprised to see an owl perched on a vine lattice of the home next door, yesterday. It was enjoying a little siesta and didn't appear to be annoyed by the attention it attracted.

One of the lady members of the Pa. News family was out driving the other day and saw lots and lots of automobiles equipped entirely in green glass. A bit surprised at this innovation she, in the proper reporter style, inquired of her editor, and of others, as to the reason for green glass. Today her face is a bit red for she discovered, on another drive, that it was all an optical illusion. Probably something she "et."

The story goes 'round and around and comes out here. It seems that a little West Side girl received a nice, red sled from Santa a year ago. Her father took her sled riding every time there was any snow. Suddenly the sled disappeared and remained missing until the young miss went to a dark nook in the cellar last week and retrieved it. She nonchalantly explained that she had gotten awful bored by sled riding a year ago and that her father seemed to want to go all the time!

Pa. News observes that the license number of a local ambulance is 0000K, and we presume it would be triple OK to ride in, if a fellow needed its services very badly.

Paul Zook Brings Suit Against Benjamin F. Black For $2500 Damages

Paul Zook, by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Zook, has filed a suit against Benjamin F. Black to recover $2500 damages for injuries sustained in an automobile accident while he was riding as a guest in a car driven by Eleanore Beerbower.

Zook claims that he was invited to ride near the Neshannock United Presbyterian church on the Wilmington road. The car was being driven south to this city. On Wilmington avenue, the Beerbower car and the Black car were in a collision and he was hurt.

Zook charges he sustained a cut on his forehead, cut on his cheek, and was otherwise injured. He alleges that the accident was due to the reckless driving of Black.

Reports Inquiry Made About Money By Fisch's Friend

Revelation From Havana May Have Bearing On Hauptmann Case

By RICHARD ARMSTRONG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HAVANA, Jan. 28.—Dr. Arturo Gonzalez Alfonso, president of Cuba's Unionist party, today asserted that prior to the arrest of Bruno Richard Hauptmann a reputed German friend of Isidor Fisch, Post-humous alibi for Hauptmann, had displayed to him a letter signed by Fisch and simultaneously inquired concerning possibility of circulating marked bills in Cuba.

Alfonso explained he was revealing the episode at this time because of its possible connection with the Lindbergh case. Mainstay of Hauptmann's defense has been his claim that ransom bills found at his Bronx home were left with him by Fisch, tubercular little furrier, before he sailed for Germany where he died a few months after his arrival.

Alfonso further voiced belief that Fisch's unidentified friend is still here. He has seen him intermittently both before and after Hauptmann's arrest, he said, and last saw him about two months ago.

The letter was shown to him, Alfonso stated, in the German consulate here by a German whose name he does not know. He said the signature was both written and typed, but he did not remember whether the letter was written in English or German. Alfonso speaks neither language.

Alfonso said the German approached him some time before Hauptmann's arrest and asked him, as a lawyer, whether bills marked and prohibited from circulation in the United States could be circulated in Cuba.

JUNIOR CHAMBER MAPS '36 PLANS

Division Heads Named By President Smith At Regular Meeting

An enthusiastic spirit prevailed last night as New Castle's Junior Chamber of Commerce met in The Castleton to organize its activity program for 1936.

The attendance, boosted by a group of new members, was the best of any chamber session of the past year.

President Herbert Smith presided throughout the evening and announced his director assignments for the year.

Gus Santilippo was named head of the membership division of the chamber; Lee Houk was appointed head of the civic affairs; A. Pearson Furst, the commercial division; D. D. Young, industrial division; A. Bruce Ewing, public relations division, and Clarence Brown, the financial division.

Each of the division heads will shortly announce committee groups which will handle the various phases of the chamber's affairs.

Within a short time the local organization expects to affiliate itself with the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The group last night discussed business of various kinds and approved the elimination of the 35-year maximum age limit for members. Persons can now be above that age limit and belong.

The organization's board of directors will meet on Monday evening, February 3 to complete its committee organization.

Says Truck Parked Without Any Lights

L. E. Pyle's Car Hit It And He Wants Archie Consola To Pay Damages

L. E. Pyle of 478 Neshannock avenue, has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against Archie Consola in which he asks $82.75 damages to his car which struck a truck driven by Consola while it was parked on Neshannock avenue.

The plaintiff claims that there is no ordinance permitting a motor vehicle to park at an angle on Neshannock avenue. It is claimed that Consola truck, was so parked, the rear wheels being 18 inches from the curb, and the bed of the truck extending into the cartway.

It was 11:20 at night when Pyle was driving down the street and struck the truck. He alleges that there were no lights on the truck at the time and that the defendant was negligent in the manner of parking and in not having lights. The amount of damages asked is what it is alleged to have cost to repair the Pyle car.

START PLANS TO PROVIDE BONUS

and have them in the various post offices ready to meet the demands of the veterans.

The veterans will be required to identify themselves by their fingerprints, and the serial number of their Adjusted Service Certificate. The military services have a complete file of the fingerprints of all World War veterans.

In addition to the bureau of engraving the veterans administration and the treasury, the secret service will also be called into service to guard against counterfeit bonds.

The treasury will ask for an appropriation of $2,500,000 to carry out its part of the mandate, while it is expected the veterans administration will require about $5,000,000.

Need 3000 More Employees

The veterans' administration will require from 2,500 to 3,000 additional employees to record the approximately 38,000,000 separate $50 bonds that are issued and to make about 7,000,000 distinct interest calculations on the service certificates. They will be employed from the civil service rolls.

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, got the first batch of the bonus applications into the mails today. They will be poured into the mail hoppers as fast as they come off the presses until they are distributed in every section of the United States and its territories.

Distribution of the applications is being made through the administration's regional offices, the veterans organization and other bodies in contact with veterans. Members of congress will be supplied blanks to furnish constituents.

Application Blanks

The application statement reads: "I hereby make application to the administrator for the settlement of any amount due and payable to me on Adjusted Service Certificate No. Dated Amount $ Further identified by No. A which was issued to based upon military or naval service during the World War, who was born at on and who resigned as chief executive of the army, navy or marine corps serial No. Date of enlistment Date of discharge and rank and organization at date of discharge I hereby surrender all rights title and interest in the above-described Adjusted Service Certificate."

The applicant must be identified by a postmaster, any commissioned officer of the military services, a member of congress, an officer of a veterans' organization "or any person who is legally authorized to administer oaths."

The veteran must smudge the fingerprints of the four fingers of his right hand on his application in front of the officer identifying him for his bonus.

Though the governor had previously been in ill health and at one time his resignation as chief executive was considered imminent, Allen had been enjoying good health when he was stricken this morning.

Mrs. Allen, along with other members of the family were with the governor when death came. Prominent leaders of the powerful political machine, however, were absent from the capitol at the time.

Most of them, including Lieut. Gov. James A. Nease, when advised of the governor's death immediately left for the capitol.

Washington Shocked

Washington, Jan. 28.—The sudden death of Governor O. K. Allen of Louisiana today shocked official Washington particularly Capitol Hill, where he was slated to enter the U. S. Senate.

While Gov. Allen was not well known here, his expected advent as a senator was awaited with interest. Senator John H. Overton (D) of Louisiana, whom Gov. Allen was to have joined in the senate said:

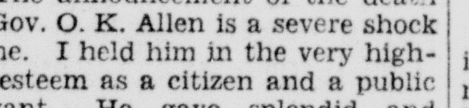

"The announcement of the death of Gov. O. K. Allen is a severe shock to me. I held him in the very highest esteem as a citizen and a public servant. He gave splendid and painstaking service to his state. His loss is irreparable."

You'd think conservative Democrats were marrying Roosevelt. They promise to love and honor him if he will change to suit them.

Every town has a prominent citizen who thinks he is "good pay" because he seldom waits two years after payment is due.

Keeping vital organs alive after the spirit is gone isn't a new idea. It is done with comic strips.

Red Cross Chapter Asks Veterans Bureau For Blanks And Information

Secretary Orville Potter, of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, has written to the United States Veterans administration for information relative to the bonus which was passed by the Senate over the president's veto Monday, making it a law.

Application has been made for forms on which veterans may apply for their bonus, and as soon as these are received, the veterans here will be notified.

It is expected that it will take several days yet, however, before an application form is agreed upon, and it will be some little time before they can be printed.

Veterans should not be in any great hurry, however, Secretary Potter believes, as the bonus is not expected to be available for payment until next June, and it is expected to take a great deal of time figuring out interest payments on loans made prior to January 1931.

School Bus And Auto Collide Near Greenville

(International News Service)

GREENVILLE, Pa., Jan. 28.—Seven Greenville high school students were recovering today from slight injuries received when the school bus carrying them home to West Salem township overturned after colliding with an automobile.

They were treated at the Greenville hospital. Joseph Bratek, who suffered several head cuts, was the most seriously injured.

The automobile was driven by Richard Hall, Greenville school teacher, according to police, who said he skidded into the bus, driven by Mrs. Wilhemina Beckstein, as he tried to pass it.

DISTINGUISHED RING UNITES LOCAL COUPLE

Featuring the wedding of Miss Virginia Elizabeth Templeton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Templeton Sr., 141 Boyles avenue, and William Verne Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy R. Newton, 1020 Adams street, this city, on Monday morning, January 27, was the bride's ring, mounted from an heirloom nugget of gold, the same gold used in her mother's wedding ring, which is in keeping with a family tradition of the bride's family. The ceremony was performed at 11 o'clock, in the Methodist parsonage at Old City with Rev. S. L. Maxwell, formerly of New Castle, officiating.

The bride was attended in a pretty frock of forest-green crepe, with matching accessories, and a shoulder corsage of roses and heather. She had as her only attendant, Miss Helen Newton, sister of the bridegroom, who chose an ensemble of crepe in a harmonizing shade of green, with accessories and shoulder bouquet, to blend.

John Templeton, Jr., brother of the bride, served as best man.

Upon the return of the bridal party to New Castle, a wedding dinner of beautiful appointments, was served at the Templeton residence. Places were set for members of the immediate families of the couple, and one guest, Miss Fern Cloak. A large tiered cake, and a groom in miniature, which was used on the wedding cake of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Leiby, of this city, fifteen years ago, adorned the center. Other decorations in keeping with the nuptial motif, completed the table arrangement, where a sumptuous dinner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton will be at home in their newly furnished apartment on Boyles avenue, this city.

Quota club at the regular weekly meeting at the Elks club last night, was pleased to have Samuel Rashid as the speaker.

So interesting was his talk on "Oriental Rugs," his listeners could visualize a trip through Persia. They saw a flock of sheep upon a hillside, the dyeing of the wool into the beautiful mellow colors, and the designing and weaving of Persian rugs.

Mr. Rashid had on display some seventeenth century museum piece which attracted much attention.

APPRECIATED PROGRAM AT THE MUSIC CLUB

The interest manifested at the program of Italian Opera given last evening by the Music Club in Highland U. P. church, with Edwin Lewis as host, is local evidence of the everlasting vitality and interest for the arts and audiences in this form of art. The union of music with dramatic representation, is one form or another and in various degrees of development, is indicated by the oldest records we possess.

Before each number was presented, notes of value concerning the opera and its composer, were given by Ruth Weir.

Praiseworthy renditions of arias and duets from the operas, Aida, Il Trovatore, Pagliacci, La Forza del Destino and La Traviata, were given by Miss Helen Allen, Miss Ruth Drescher, Miss Mary Clarke and Miss Lena Malls, sopranos, William McCombs, tenor, Alan B. Davis and Robert Duff, baritone.

Two ensembles directed by Albert Taylor, and accompanied by Mrs. Kathryn Nessel Allen, sang admirably, the "Miserere" from Il Trovatore, and "With Warlike Mintrelty" from Lucia di Lammermoor. Included in the ensembles were Miss Ruth Drescher, Miss Helen Allen, Miss Hazel Louise Campbell, Mrs. Clifford M. Propst, William McCombs, James Bowman, Robert Duff, Samuel McCleary, Fred Smith and Charles Strimater.

Accompanists for the evening were Mrs. Kathryn Nessel Allen, Mrs. Helen Johnston Starke, Mrs. Alan B. Davis, and Albert Taylor. Usurers were Mrs. Robert Fleming and Frank Taylor. Preceding the program, applicants for active membership in the club were heard by the executive board.

On February 10, a student program will be given with Mrs. Robert Fleming as hostess. American program with Miss Elizabeth Williams as hostess, will be presented on February 24.

Board Meeting

JUNIOR B. P. W. PLANS PARTY FOR KIDDIES

An interesting meeting of board members of the Junior Business and Professional Women's club was held Monday evening at a downtown tea room, with the Misses Wanda White and Amelda Ruby presiding as hostesses.

The usual routine of business was entered into and discussion regarding future activities, aroused much enthusiasm. One event of particular interest is the Valentine party scheduled for February 14, to be given for the kiddies of the Margaret Henry Home. Miss Lucille Emery, president, appointed on the committee in charge, Gladie Biddle, chairman; Helen Brown and Helen Messner. During the leisure hours that ensued, informal pastimes were enjoyed, and dainty refreshments served.

The next regular dinner meeting of the club will be held at the usual tea room, Feb. 4, with Geraldine McClelland, chairman of the public relations committee, in charge. However, their next board session will take place the latter part of February with Kathryn Anderson and Mrs. Nell Sturdy filling the role of hostesses.

STITCH-A-BIT CLUB

GUESTS MONDAY EVE

The home of Margaret Bowers on Adams street, was the scene of an enjoyable social affair Monday night, when she entertained the Stitch-A-Bit club members informally at cards. Misses Susan Wallace and Elma Badger were the prize winners. The group had as their guest, Mabel Kocher, who shared in the evening activities.

At a later hour, the hostess served a tempting repast at the dining room table, which was attractively appointed in Valentine suggestions. Novel "fortune hearts" were used as favors. Miss Dorothy Bowers assisted her sister in serving.

In two weeks the club will meet in the home of Gladys Gray on Adams street.

LOCAL GROUP HOME

FROM FORT PIERCE

Returning this week from Fort Pierce, Florida, are Mr. and Mrs. William H. Milson, of the New Bedford road, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fulkerson, of Pine street, and Mr. and Mrs. John Milson of Delaware avenue.

The local group drove down about two weeks ago and visited Mrs. Josie Fulkerson and her daughter, Mrs. Clarence D. Knight, who will be remembered as Martha Fulkerson, a former local resident.

They report the weather in the southland, as delightfully warm and the driving not so bad until nearly home.

CURRENT TOPICS ARE DISCUSSED BY CLASS

A most interesting meeting of the Current Events class took place on Monday afternoon, in the home of Mrs. T. Lloyd Nixon, on Leisure avenue, with Mrs. Madge Reed hostess. After giving brief current events in answering roll call, the large attendance of members entered a general discussion of current topics that was enlightening and worthwhile.

The next meeting will be held on February 10, in the home of Mrs. Ray Robinson on East Grant St.

REGENT

YUCATAN CLUB AT H. M. KIRK HOME

Old fashioned four handed euchre claimed attention of Yucatan club members Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Kirk, on Moody avenue, who entertained in a pleasing manner, with the contest concluded and the various prizes awarded, the hostess served an appetizing lunch. She was assisted by her granddaughter, Jean McAfee with this feature.

Club members will be received in one week instead of the usual two week period, for their next regular meeting in The Castleton at 8 p. m. On this date, Mrs. Fannie Gormley and Mrs. Jessie Jackson will preside as associate hostesses.

LITERATURE-POETRY GROUP HAS MEETING

Thirty members of the Women's club braved the frigid weather to attend the Fine Arts department meeting held Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Archibald Davis, Leisure avenue.

The program was conducted by the literature group, and literature, poetry and art were featured. Mrs. C. Lee Mellinger conducting the meeting.

Mrs. W. G. Falls gave a most interesting talk on the life and paintings of John Singer Sargent, describing particularly, his mural "The Prize of the Prophets." Any Lowell, poetess, was the subject of Mrs. D. L. Ferguson's talk on poetry, and the life and characteristics of this rather eccentric, but gifted woman, were described by Mrs. Ferguson, who also read a number of Miss Lowell's poems.

The book review for the day was of Ellen Glasgow's "Vein of Iron" and was given by Mrs. Arthur Foster in a most interesting and comprehensive manner.

After the program tea was served with Mrs. James Rhoads pouring out of the honor awards. Mrs. Jack Bowden received the club gift. Immediately afterwards, lunch was served by the hostess, who had as her aide, Hazel Smith. Dainty appointments were carried out in tones of green.

On February 10 the club will be received by Mrs. Paul Gardner, Oak street.

DINNER EVENT IS ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

Covers were arranged for 31 guests at a prettily appointed dinner event in the Elks club Saturday evening for girls in the Sorting Department of the Shenango Works, of the A. S. and T. P. Co. Arrangements were in charge of Garnet Linton and Esther Ritchie, who supervised the selection of a delicious dinner menu, after which the group spent the evening around the piano in the parlor singing and chatting.

MINISTERS WIVES HAVE SOCIAL EVENT

As guests of Miss Mary Alice White, of Glenmore boulevard, on Monday evening, ministers wives spent delightfully informal hours, the cold weather not marring the attendance a bit for there was a large representation present.

The business session was in charge of the president, Mrs. C. H. Heaton, and after matters of a routine nature had been discussed, the women played games and chatted.

A lovely lunch was served at the dining room table, centered with an artistic bouquet of sunburst roses. The group will have its February meeting on the last Monday, the hostess to be decided.

SHOWER HONORS BRIDAL COUPLE

A miscellaneous shower complimented Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Williams (Blanche Howard), Saturday evening, when a group of relatives and friends gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams, on Croton avenue.

After the happy young couple was tendered many useful and lovely gifts the guests spent an enjoyable evening with music and cards as favored pastimes. A delightful lunch was served by the hostess and the following aides, Mrs. Homer Thompson, Mrs. Elmer Sleight, Mrs. Chas. Kitchen and Charles Williams.

Among the large number of guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams and family, of R. D. 5, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shaffer of the Ellwood road.

MONDAY EVENING BRIDGE CLUB MEET

Last night, in the home of Mrs. Clinton Glenn, Highland Heights, members of the Monday Evening bridge club assembled, for an informal period of card playing. Those who shared as special guests were Mrs. Clair Montgomery and Mrs. Jack Bowden.

The early hours were whiled away with bridge, Mrs. Ralph White and Emma Patton being fortunate winners of the honor awards. Mrs. Jack Bowden received the club gift. Immediately afterwards, lunch was served by the hostess, who had as her aide, Hazel Smith. Dainty appointments were carried out in tones of green.

On February 10 the club will be received by Mrs. Paul Gardner, Oak street.

JUNIOR HADASSAH PLANS COMPLETED

A committee meeting was held on Monday evening of those interested in the Junior Hadassah Calendar Party to be held on Monday evening, February 3rd at the Tifereth Israel Synagogue, at 8 o'clock.

With the aid of Rabbi Pinchos Katz and the following committee, the entire affair will be carried out in a novel manner, according to the Calendar months of the Jewish year, with appropriate sketches and readings outlining the holidays of each month. The Calendar Months with their various chairmen are:

Tishri—Betty Gilman.
Heshvan—Harriett Wolfe.
Kislev—Teelo Simon.
Tebeth—Rosalya Safer.
Shebat—Gertrude Saul.
Adar—Jeanette Ginsburg.
Nissan—Ruth Markley.
Iyar—Rosalya Freeman.
Sivan—Esther Grossman.
Tammuz—Thillie Solomon.
Ab—Dorothy Levine.
Elul—Anne Shifman.

Miss Rheba Frank is general chairman with Dora Winick, co-chairman. Refreshments will be served and committee members, will have charge of reservations.

This Mid-season social event is only one of Junior Hadassah's many activities. The organization interests itself in many philanthropic enterprises.

LEAP YEAR PARTY ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

Leap Year got away to a good start for one group of girls, anyway, to date, the T. O. G. club dating their boy friends for a party last Saturday night in the home of Verna Parks, on Hanna street, which turned out to be as enjoyable as anticipated.

Games and dancing were two diversions provided to keep the group of 20 couples in a lively humor until a late hour, when a most flavorful lunch was served by the refreshment committee composed of Helen Klabin, Jennie Pruitt, and Verna Parks. The amusement committee consisted of Anna Macko and Helen Davis.

Red and white colors prevailed in the decorations, with attractive favors at the places. On Thursday evening of this week, the club girls will meet regularly, in the home of Mary Klabin, on Sheep Hill.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATE HONORED BY FRIENDS

On Monday night, the C. O. M. class of the U. P. church, with their teacher, Emily Parker, was entertained in the home of Lenore Fulkerson, on Crawford avenue, in honor of Maurine Smith, a graduate of the January 1936 class at the high school.

The guest of honor was presented with a collection of dainty and colorful handkerchiefs, the girls afterwards spending an informal evening with music and games, monopoly being most popular.

Luncheon, attractively appointed, was served by the hostess and her mother at a late hour.

AMERICAN HOME OF FEDERATION MEETS

Mrs. W. H. Shipier, of Highland avenue, was hostess on Monday afternoon, to the American Home department of the Lawrence County Federation of Women's clubs.

Mrs. T. L. Lindsey, chairman, presided at the business session during which plans were made for winter and spring activities. Meetings will be held on the last Wednesday of each month.

Mrs. R. N. McBurney was elected vice chairman of this group, and Mrs. M. M. Ingham secretary. The several clubs of the Federation were well represented at this meeting.

WILLING WORKERS TO SHARE CELEBRATION

This evening in the diningroom of the First Congregational church, Mrs. Daniel Richards and Mrs. Ivor Jones will entertain their associates of the Willing Workers class, at a 6 o'clock dinner party, the occasion honoring the twenty-fifth wedding anniversaries of both hostesses.

It is a rare occasion that two such events occur on the same date, and the women decided to celebrate in this manner. Mrs. Sol Davies is president of the class.

Luncheon Spoon Club

The Luncheon Spoon club will have a meeting at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. S. W. Perry, 227 East North street.

BUILDING ON THE UPGRADE

FOR those who have viewed with concern the apparent failure of the building industry to catch the stride of industry generally in the march toward recovery there is good news in the most recent statistics concerning building operations.

For the first ten months of 1935, the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor announces, permits were issued for buildings valued at $674,000,000. This is an increase of $264,000,000, or more than sixty-five per cent, over the figures for the same period in 1934. Residential construction begun in October totaled $34,312,021, or 146.7 per cent greater in volume and 197.7 per cent in value than for similar building in the same month in 1934. Residential construction for the first ten months of the year totaled $232,000,000 or 162 per cent more than the same period in 1934.

These figures, while impressive, should not be interpreted as reflecting a close approach by the building industry to the activities of normal times. Neither should the student of building conditions be disheartened by a comparison with the peak year of 1928, when total construction in the country was estimated at more than eleven billion dollars. This total was expressive of a building frenzy which produced countless business and residential structures which were not justified by actual needs.

The gain over last year is encouraging and indicates that the industry, so long in the doldrums, is on its way back.

THE BEAUTIFUL

Snow is a lovely thing in the country, if one can look out of the window from a cozy warm room and observe the crystals piling on top of one another to the greater glory of the landscape. Even in the city one can extract an ethical delight from the process.

Not, however, if one has to go out in it. Snow leads inevitably to slush, and one has suspicions of the credibility of the slush fancier. Even ice, if it covers the street to the downfall of the unwary, does not bear the same connotation as it does when tinkling in a glass, the temperature in the 90s. To the city dweller snow is just as much an unmitigated nuisance as it is if one lives in the country and has to get about. Let us be honest about it. Theoretically we all love the snow in the abstract; in the concrete—and when it solidifies into what we painfully remove from our sidewalks, concrete is right—let us not deceive ourselves. Cities, especially, do not mix well with snow. Civilization, or what we call civilization in our metropolitan pride, has a way of going on, though in the going it encounters troubles. Especially if one drives a car. So the conflict between civilization and dear old nature is bitter.

This is only January, so there is no use in looking forward to spring. There will be such a thing—there always has been. But winter is here now and for six weeks, at least, there will be plenty more of it. We will endure it as we must, humanity can bear a lot, but there comes a time. . . .

WHAT AIR TRIP REVEALS ON HIGHWAYS

If people want to get to the next town, and are in a hurry, it's natural to take the main highway. If they're driving for pleasure, or have plenty of time, it may be foolish.

It surely looks foolish to a newspaper man who took an airplane trip recently over one of our metropolitan areas. He describes what he saw in this fashion:

"From the vantage-point of 2,000 feet could be seen highways in every direction. Dozens of stretches not as wide as the main roads, but just as smooth and passing through country just as beautiful, were virtually deserted. On the main road thousands of cars struggled to make headway—and were making it except at inevitable obstructions such as important intersecting highways.

"The ease of avoiding congestion could not have been more definitely demonstrated. The pleasure-driving highways were virtually unused; the 'get-somewhere' highways were filled. No other conclusion could be drawn than that the pleasure-hunting motorist was looking in the wrong place."

It's a good illustration of the propensity of the human animal to go in droves, in spite of the noise and smell and dust and crowding, in blind submission to the herd instinct, instead of using his intelligence to choose his own course. Motorists, superficially modern, are still primitive.

"THAT HORRID AMERICAN ACCENT"

It's too bad that James Russell Lowell, who so neatly dissected "a certain condescension in foreigners," isn't here to comment on this advertisement in the "Argon column" of the London Times: "American accent corrected by expert teacher."

And yet, after all, this well-meant offer need hardly create an international "incident." The advertiser evidently isn't an expert, but a poseur. Otherwise he would know that there isn't any uniform, distinctive American accent. There are at least fifty-seven varieties. Will he guarantee that he can "correct" a chronic Harvard accent, after all other attempts have failed?

Let this alleged expert go and get a reputation before he assays to tackle the New England twang and throw it for a fall. And how about the soft Southern drawl or the typically Pittsburgh rising inflection? Residents of Massachusetts, according to report, stick an "r" on the end of every word, even in months when oysters aren't in season.

But there are just as many differing accents in John Bull's tight little island. Oxford, Cockney, Yorkshire, Whitechapel, are a few samples. If an American tourist is to swap his native accent for a British one he should be careful in his selection. It will be a difficult matter, at best, to acquire one which will be equally understandable from Land's End to John O'Groats. Perhaps, on the whole, it would be wiser for the American visitor to continue to talk "plain United States."

Americanism: Firing him for utter incompetence: giving him a glowing letter of reference to soften the blow.

To those talking by ear, one war is like another. In 1914, it was Albert, King of the Belgians. Now it's the Ethiopians.

The new Hoover is attractive, but it is doubtful if the GOP could do far with Herbert on the plea that he wasn't himself in '32.

Lonely Temple Of Skulls.
Pilots Killed Needlessly.
No Queen For England?
The Oldest Worker.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE SERI INDIANS, last fighting tribe in North America, will push birth control to the last extremity. Juan Tomas, aged chief of the tribe, says his people will have no more babies, thus escaping forever disease and hardships that make their lives miserable.

THAT HAS happened before: a small nation of South America, taken over, managed and controlled for its own good, by a religious organization, decided that life was not worth while under civilized Christian conditions. Babies ceased to appear, not by agreement, but from sheer weariness of life.

THE SERI INDIANS were serious fighters, and built on the shore of the Gulf of California a "mysterious" temple of skulls taken from white men. Each year after the fishing season, they visited the pyramid and renewed their oath to kill every white man.

They failed in that plan: the temple of skulls stands and the Seri Indians go there to "mourn our former glory."

Piling up skulls is not new; conquerors from far Asia did it in Europe long ago. One built a pyramid of half a million enemy skulls or more, lighted it from the inside and greatly enjoyed looking at it.

What a long way from that pyramid to the Taj Mahal in India and the Sainte Chapelle in Paris.

THE UNNECESSARY air disaster in Hawaii, two United States bombing planes destroyed in collision while flying "in formation," and six men killed, caused aviators to say that they object to night formation flying. They may well object, nothing more densely stupid could be imagined than sending up planes to fly at high speed, almost wing to wing inviting disaster and death.

Even in these busy times, there ought to be something sufficiently

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

MIAMI—Champion Jimmy Braddock makes a prediction:

"I'll come back here after the Louis fight, still champion, and run for president."

INDIANAPOLIS—Col. Theodore Roosevelt goes through the looking glass with Little Alice:

"I can imagine Mr. Hopkins, like the Cheshire cat, saying to me, 'Tud, well, we're all mad here, I'm mad, you're mad.'"

HOLLYWOOD—John Barrymore looks at life and John Barrymore:

VIENNA—Dr. Franz Xaver Mayer answers the philosophers:

"The solution to all human problems . . . wars, depressions and unemployment included . . . rests with our stomachs. We are all over-eating."

NEW YORK—Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith voices loyalty to a departed leader:

THE FRIEND IN NEED

The time to be a friend is not

When skies above are bright and sunny

And blossoms deck his garden plot,

But when your neighbor's short of money.

When joy is joggling at his heels,

And fat he grows instead of thinner,

The very choicest of your meals

To him is just another dinner.

Success can always draw a throng

Of smiling men to fawn and flatter;

But friendship, when the road is long

And steep, is quite a different matter.

When man is fed and warmly clad

Nothing he asks will be denied him.

'Tis only when his luck is bad

He needs a friend to stand beside him.

Befriend the poor from day to day,

Share in the woes strewn thick about you.

Forget the rich and proud, for they

Can always get along without you.

A St. Louis woman, celebrating her 104th birthday, says she is not interested in politics, because "when people reach 100 years of age, they get over that foolishness." The big trouble with this country is that about sixty per cent of the people between the ages of 21 and 100 feel the same way.

A MYSTERY

A young man noticed a ravel on the shoulder of his dancing partner and pulled it. By the time he surmised that he had pulled the ravel, he had a ball of string in his hand, and threw it in the corner. The next morning the young lady was telling her mother about the dance and said, "I had a perfectly wonderful time, but Mamma, I can't figure out what became of my union suit."

Good Taste

By FRANCINE MARKEL

Dear Miss Markel—What is the correct manner of handling a bouillon cup with two handles? Should one lift the cup with one hand or with two; or is it incorrect to lift it at all? Should the bouillon be eaten entirely with the spoon? M. G. G.

Answer—Bouillon may be eaten with a spoon or drunk from the cup (never both hands) to lift the cup. It is customary to take spoonfuls to the mouth until the broth is cool enough to drink.

It would be rather unfair to cause the other diners to wait while you sip spoonfuls; whereas, you might very readily and correctly drink from the cup. But this, of course, is permissible only when the bouillon is served in cups with handles.

And, by the way, keep your elbow clear of the table while holding your bouillon cup to your mouth.

War Documents Tied Up.
Refuse Permission To Publish.
Britain And France Objects.

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th St.

By LESLIE EICHEL

Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—The death of King George overshadowed an important story. The United States government desired to make public documents concerning American entry and participation in the World war—for historical purposes.

Consent of the British and the French governments was asked,

since messages of theirs were intertwined with the American documents. Both the British and the French governments refused.

WHY U. S. IS BITTER

The British cannot understand why American people have become such isolationists.

The evidence being uncovered by the Nye senate munitions investigating committee ought to be an answer. A people once intrigued will swing the pendulum the other way for a long, long time.

Americans may damage themselves by swinging the pendulum so strongly in other other direction—

but they have tasted bitterly of intrigue and propaganda.

And it would be disastrous for any group of men to try to stop the Nye investigation. The people demand the truth concerning that disastrous venture of the United States into European politics and European wars.

ARE WE IMPARTIAL?

Yet, asks Raymond Leslie Buell, president of the Foreign Policy association, are Americans neutral even now? Aren't they being swayed by dangerous emotions?

He remarks:

"Under present-day conditions an attitude of 'impartiality' on the part of Americans toward war is far more difficult than in 1914. In the first place, American public opinion, which literally forced the government to conclude the anti-war pact, believes that war is a great wrong, and if the state department

refrains from condemning a country which goes to war unjustly, large sections of American opinion will not hesitate to do so.

"This lack of 'impartiality' is likely

Patterson Names Committees For President's Ball

Success or failure in any civic enterprise is usually determined by the committee men and women who are asked to serve. If they are interested and will work most any civic affair can be put over. It is true of the President's Ball which will be held in the Cathedral on January 30. The committees named to handle the various activities of the ball will be responsible for the success or failure of the affair.

General Chairman—Clarence A. Patterson. Every angle of the ball has been thought of and plenty of active workers placed on committees. The committees named follow:

McNair Continues Drive For Taxes

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Jan. 28.—Continuing his drive to collect delinquent taxes, Mayor William N. McNair today ordered city solicitor William D. Grimes to notify 383 property owners in the second ward to pay $1,600,000 in back taxes or be sold out by the sheriff. Notices previously had been sent to 535 property owners in the first ward who owe $1,089,000.
Mayor McNair is attempting to collect $14,000,000 in delinquent taxes from 20,000 taxpayers.

"FOR YOUR HEALTH"

HOTEL MATTRESS

NOW AVAILABLE FOR THE FIRST TIME FOR YOU TO USE IN YOUR HOME....

● In November at the National Hotel Show, New York, Sleeper introduced this new mattress—built to appeal to a group of men and women who are the most discriminating buyers in the world—hotel purchasing agents.

And this Sleeper "Sanitized" mattress was the talk of the show—a new, improved mattress by Sleeper factories who are experts in making hotel bedding. Sleeper plants have equipped such hotels as the Book Cadillac at Detroit, Bismarck at Chicago, Mayfair in New York, Olympic at Seattle, Ben Franklin at Philadelphia and hundreds of others. They well know the severe use hotel mattresses must undergo. This new Sleeper mattress is the result of more than fifty years of country-wide experience.

Knowing all this, we are proud to be able to bring it to you for use in your home—at a price made possible, only by our large purchases last fall before costs went up. This is the first time we have offered so fine a bargain—very possibly it may be the last.

We urge you to come in, see this mattress now. Let us explain its details of construction—tell you why you will receive guaranteed comfort, health protection, and long wear that you could hardly hope to get in a mattress at twice this price.

In Blue and White Stripe, Woven, as shown $19.75

In Damask—heavy imported—your color choice—lovely chrysanthemum design $24.75

THERE ARE UPHOLSTERED BOX SPRINGS TO MATCH EACH MATTRESS. PRICE SAME AS MATTRESS.

Clean AS A WHISTLE

That's what Sanitized means! It means the mattress ticking has been made permanently sterile—actively antiseptic—wherein no bacteria can live.

Don't confuse this sanitized ticking with such words as "Sanitary", "Sterilized" or "X-rayed". Laboratory tests prove such mattresses are not immune from germ propagation. THIS SANITIZED MATTRESS IS!

Italian Singer To Be Deported

Mario Renzi, Hailed As Second "Gigli", Faces Deportation

(International News Service)
HARTFORD Conn., Jan. 28.—The golden tenor voice of Mario Renzi, acclaimed as Italy's "second Gigli", has been deported today as far as American radio and opera was concerned.
Held without bail at Hartford county jail, he faced a rush journey to East Boston immigration station to be placed aboard the first liner bound for sunny Italy.
His house of cards tumbled around his ears, for the aim of his career, a chance for an audition with the Metropolitan Opera Company appeared lost. The "Met" had set February 11th as the date, but by that time he probably will be out of the country.
"Pan letters," sent by federal agents as a bait to learn his whereabouts proved his undoing—that and a scheme whereby a friend returned to Italy under his name and a passport.

C. D. OF A. ASSEMBLY IN K. OF C. ROOMS

Catholic Daughters of America assembled Monday evening, in K. of C. hall on North Jefferson street, for what proved to be a most pleasant evening.

Bingo and 500 were favored pastimes, the favor in the latter contest going to Mrs. Nell Hannon, and the winners in the former game were Miss Jean Norris, Mrs. R. C. Gallagher, Mrs. Jennie Valley, Mrs. Anne Flynn and Mrs. Evelyn Woods.

Miss Jean Norris was in charge of the evening's entertainment which was concluded by the merry group, with the serving of tasty refreshments. Aides were Mrs. Bernadine Ryan and Mrs. Mary Geddes.

A. I. M. Class Party

Members of the A. I. M. Class of the First Baptist church, taught by Mrs. Mary Landis, assembled in the home of Genevieve McCalmont, Park avenue, Monday evening for an informal party. Fourteen participated, including one guest, Betty Shunk.

Games and bingo contests featured the hours, prizes going to Mrs. Ruth Perdue, Dorothy Cooper, Mary Natcher, Ruth Simons and Mabel Shunk.

Following luncheon was served at the dining room table, which was prettily set with Valentine suggestions. The hostess was aided by her mother, Mrs. McCalmont, with the menu.

The next gathering of class members, will be in the form of a Valentine party, at the home of Twila Nixon on Neshaanock avenue, the date to be decided.

UPARATASA HAS SESSION

John Hensley, president of the Uparatasa fraternity of the Y. M. C. A. officiated at the regular meeting which was held last night in the "Y."

Resignation of vice president Henry Wyman was presented at the business session and accepted. This resignation was caused due to the fact that Mr. Wyman will leave New Castle about the first of February for Harrisburg, Pa., where he will take up residence. President Hensley appointed Arnold Figley to fill the chair of the vice president for the remaining portion of the term of Henry Wyman. Figley was also named to head the program committee which will be in charge of arrangements for each meeting. Also during the business session discussion was heard regarding a Valentine party. The time and place of this contemplated party will be announced at a future time.

Following the business session the organization adjourned to the home of Kirk Patison, Court street, where induction services was held for the following new members: Earl Hildebrand, Wendell Elser, Harold Gettings, and Richard Maloney. Maloney and Gettings were inducted pending their initiation period.

PHALANX UNIT TO MEET

Members of the Phalanx fraternity which effected its temporary organization last week will gather at the "Y" tonight at 7:30 to complete its organization. John Templeton, 1936 permits to haul coal. King Winter Relaxes His Grip Slightly

(International News Service)
King Winter relaxed his grip on Pennsylvania today as temperatures climbed above zero for the first time since the cold wave struck the state six days ago.

Two more deaths brought the toll in the state during the cold spell to 33 as the upward trend began in earnest.

The break in the cold snap found coal supplies running short in many districts. Pittsburgh dealers were several days behind in their orders. At Somerset, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad turned over seven carloads of coal for sale to householders.

The lowest mark recorded in Pittsburgh was two above zero at the airport weather bureau, last midnight. Another night of sub-zero weather would have equaled the record of seven consecutive sub-zero days set in 1899.

Milton Miltenberger, 68, was hurled to his death by an explosion while attempting to thaw out pipes in a water tower at Horman, Butler county. Anthony H. Huber, 51, died of a heart attack while attempting to free his automobile from a snowdrift near Johnstown.

Classes at Sacred Heart high school in Pittsburgh were cancelled because of the snow. Most rural schools were not operating. Intermittent snowflurries were expected today.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

lished the following criticism of that message:

"Those who heard last Friday evening, President Roosevelt delivering his annual message to Congress, testify to a power of what the printed page could only hint next morning. Never, it seems, had he displayed so brilliantly his oratorical gifts; now in words that fell with the suddenness of a whip-lash, now in resolute and moving tones, he spoke with the consciousness of a world listening. It was a great show; and a generation that had been brought up to hear in public men mumble and drawl, to believe there is no longer any passion or enchantment in the conduct of affairs, can be forgiven, I think, if it confesses to some delight in the performance."

"But there cannot have been many, reading over the speech in cold type next day, who were not aware also of profound disappointment. It will be said of Mr. Roosevelt that an occasion which ought to have been used for sober and dispassionate report, he used instead for partisan ends. It will be said that by resorting to the radio, and by speaking at night, he exerted a dominance over public opinion which in a democracy no single man should hold. These are charges not easily answered, but it seems to me that the chief charge against the message is its irrelevance, its failure to bring any wisdom to bear on the great problems which confront the nation. The President may have revealed great showmanship. But he revealed no statesmanship at all.

"For statesmanship, I think, demands in these times an honest appraisal of the course we have travelled. It calls in its disciples for a willingness to acknowledge the mistakes which in haste and inexperience have been committed; for a capacity to meet the new problems that arise, to reconcile the forces that are still obdurate, to judge calmly where further advances may be made. Statesmanship does not consist in the fireworks which Mr. Roosevelt saw fit to loose. These bring heat, but they do not bring light. They solve nothing, create nothing. They leave no understanding, and though they open wounds, they cannot cure or appease them."

"Such tactics, it is true, have in the past served Mr. Roosevelt well. When he first came to power he saw intuitively that a heading and audacious bearing could be more fruitful than a mild persuasion. Mr. Roosevelt remembers those days; indeed the most striking thing in his message was the frequency with which he reverted to his inaugural. No less than six times he quoted from that address, as though he were trying to evoke once more the mood in which he had first won the enthusiasm and support of the people."

"But that mood could not be restored and so it was that his denunciation of the 'money changers', his assault on greed, his biting wrath, seemed theatrical in this message, seemed futile and invidious, though once they had urged us to brave endeavor."

"The essence of the matter seems to be that a different kind of leadership is needed today from that which was needed when the national will was paralyzed and our people near despair. New qualities must animate our rulers. Mr. Roosevelt, in his annual message, has suggested that he is incapable of summoning those qualities. That is a grave thing. For if he will not pause now and compose his spirit, if he will not show a preoccupation with what is nobler and more important than mere partisan enmity, if he will not settle down with patience to administer and consolidate his program, then a second term can bring only disaster to the cause he has sought to advance. Then those who have admired most his courage and adventurousness will begin to seek in others those quieter virtues which he either will not, or else cannot display."

intelligent to stop that nonsense, at night, and in daytime also.

ENGLAND believes that her new king, Edward VIII, intends never to marry. As Prince of Wales he received, and still receives as king a large income from the Duchy of Cornwall, taken over by the Black Prince long ago for the benefit of the oldest sons of English kings. Edward VIII will hand on the Cornwall income to his brother, the Duke of York, heir apparent, to help with his increased expenses.

If the king expects to marry and have a son he would retain the Cornwall revenue for his own future Prince of Wales. But, even kings sometimes change their minds, or ladies change their minds for them. There may be somewhere in a British or continental nursery, a little girl, who later will convince Edward VIII that a bachelor's life is dull.

MR. JOHN HORAN, of Milwaukee, called by his fellow workers "Soda Ash Johnny" first used soda ash to clean locomotive boilers a discovery that should have made him rich, but did not.

"Soda Ash Johnny," a proud man, refused to let his son accept a pension, still able to work, and no boys of mine is going on the country."

It will surprise you to hear that the son, aged 66, had applied for an old age pension.

"Soda Ash Johnny," aged ninety-eight, oldest railroad worker in the country, has worked for the Milwaukee Railroad Company 82 years. Perhaps he has enjoyed his life more than if he had spent the last 30 years spending every month as fast as he got it $200 given to him by the government.

Nevertheless, everyone hopes that that old, in need, will be provided for as generously as may be possible, and without waiting until they are 98.

THE ENGLISH are excited about their first "bump-off" and "ride" Scotland Yard, in great excitement, seeks a young girl in a leopard skin coat seen at a roadside cafe in Hertfordshire talking with a man whose body, thrown from an automobile, was soon afterward picked up on the roadside.

The victim, dealer in jewelry, aged 55, had many bullets in his body; English newspapers call it a "crime in the American style."

This country has long ceased to be excited about such trifles.

AIR PILOTS lead interesting lives. One Russian flying over the Caspian Sea, found an ice floe that had broken away with 1,825 marooned fishermen and 1,400 horses. The marooned men were cheerful, the fishing was marvellously good out there, they said. Medicines were dropped to them and boats will bring them back to shore. Smaller groups of castaways on other ice floes are missing.

No limit can be set to the airplane's future usefulness, replanting forests, fighting forest fires, locating mines and oil wells, fighting plant diseases.

A TWENTY-FIVE cent coin, dated 1823, was sold at auction for $910. Scarcity means value; if everybody had such a coin, each would be worth twenty five cents. That applies to almost everything.

If every American owned 100 pounds of gold, gold would cease to be money; some future Bryan might demand a ratio of 16 ounces of gold to one ounce of silver.

THE GREAT German Krupp works, that once made cannon for the Kaiser, and then turned to making ploughs and such, reports an excellent year, with nearly $4,000,000 profit. It is surmised that Krupp is no longer manufacturing ploughshares exclusively.

Hoover Heights Having Services

Rev. J. V. Krall Is Evangelist
In Charge Of Revival
Series

Rev. J. V. Krall, a well known radio evangelist and Gospel preacher, is speaking every night this week with the exception of Saturday, at Hoover Heights Gospel Tabernacle in South New Castle Boro.

These meetings were opened on Sunday and have given every indication of being the most helpful and successful ever conducted in the tabernacle. In spite of the cold weather, crowds have gathered nightly and have found interest and inspiration in the earnest appeal of the speaker. Rev. Krall is a scholarly and intellectual speaker, at the same time delivering messages that are simple and convincing. His themes so far have been "Pillars in the Church of Christ," "Blessings of Redemption" and "The Curse of Cross."

Preliminary prayer services will be conducted in the prayer room of the church each night at 7 o'clock.

No New Reprieve For Hauptmann

(International News Service)
TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 28.—Governor Harold Hoffman of New Jersey has no intention of granting another reprieve to Bruno Richard Hauptmann and has virtually abandoned hope of saving the Bronx carpenter from the electric chair, it was reported here today.

Hoffman declared he would not grant another stay of execution to Hauptmann unless Attorney General David Wilentz gave his permission. Wilentz lost little time in indicating that no such permission would be forthcoming from him.

Skipping Rope Is Problem To Court

Is It A Help To Physical Culture Or An Amusement Toy?

(International News Service)
PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 28.—A brightly colored skipping rope coiled on a table in U. S. customs court proved a strange magnet to high-priced attorneys from New York, legal authorities from Washington, qualified experts and Walter H. Evans, customs court judge, who gathered here to determine what is a skipping rope.

The Sproule-Reitz Co., importers, insisted a skipping rope is a device used in physical culture for building up adults afflicted with shortness of breath, adipose tissue and general debility.

Government authorities contended the fancy bit of rope was a toy, suitable for amusement of children. Physical culture apparatus, under the tariff regulations, pays only 30%, ad valorem duty. Toys must pay 70%, which explains the controversy over skipping rope.

A cabaret dancer grabbed up a skipping rope and demonstrated what a fat man could do if he got down to business. There was no "vinegar, mustard, red-hot-pepper" demonstrated by school girls to uphold the toy arguments of the government.

Rope-wielding attorneys repressed punter-impulses to shout a withering "knots to you" at opposing counsel. Consequently neither side was able to sneeringly reply, "Skip it."

Driver Is Cleared,
Prosecutor To Pay
At Slippery Rock

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 28.—Louis Ralston, Slippery Rock, R. D. No. 5, was adjudged not guilty in a reckless driving case by Judge John H. Wilson, in an order handed down today, and the prosecuting witness, F. L. Smith, was directed to pay the costs.

The case came before the court on an appeal from the docket of Justice Raymond P. Boyer of Slippery Rock, who previously had adjudged Ralston guilty and fined him $10.

The automobiles of Ralston and Smith collided on Route No. 68, last October 1, at a bridge, and Smith caused Ralston to be arrested on a reckless driving charge.

Roosevelt Has Many Puzzled

Both Republicans And Democrats Debate Strength Of President

MANY PROBLEMS ENTER INTO RACE

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S. Street
By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—To say that President Roosevelt is beatable next November is not to predict that he will be beaten.

Democratic politicians assert for publication that his re-election is certain. Confidentially many of them admit that they are uneasy. Republicans assert for publication that the G. O. P.'s candidate, whoever he may be, is sure to win. Confidentially few of them are more than mildly hopeful.

The situation is puzzling, even to the wisest experts.

Republicans and Democrats agree that normally there always have been more Republicans than Democrats in the United States ever since the two parties have existed; that the Democrats never have won nationally, except when there has been something abnormal in the atmosphere. Does the requisite degree of politico-economic abnormality saturate the atmosphere of today to insure another Democratic victory? Next election day will tell. Now it's a mere matter of guesswork.

PARTIES SWAP PLACES

Another factor enters into the equation. As Republicanism and Democracy hitherto have been defined, Republicans, as previously remarked, have been more numerous ordinarily than Democrats.

But, as of recent date, the two parties have swapped positions. Formerly the Republicans were for centralized federal government, while the Democrats stood pat for state rights. Under the Roosevelt regime the Democrats have become the centralizationists, while the Republicans have become the state rights defenders.

Shouldn't this mean that the new kind of Democrats have been whipped into a majority and the new kind of Republicans into a minority?

In other words: Isn't a present-day Democrat a Republican, and a present-day Republican a Democrat?—according to old-fashioned party labels.

If, as I think, the logical answer is "Yes," and if the electorate accepts it affirmatively in November then the fair conclusion is that the New Deal should be in a comfortable—maybe an overwhelming—majority.

The electorate, however, has a reputation for disregarding logic and voting as her party labels.

It may be converted in a generation or two.

But by next November? One reasonably may be skeptical.

Suppose there is a reversion, in old-time Republican territory, to the old-time Republican label?—unintelligent perhaps but conceivable.

A "HATE" VOTE

Republicans, too, are counting on what they call a "hate vote"—a vote by citizens who haven't had as much from the New Deal as they expected.

The vote they contemplate is similar to the vote cast in 1932—not FOR Franklin D. Roosevelt, but, AGAINST Herbert Hoover.

This time they reckon that it will be against Roosevelt—the tide having turned the other way, though perhaps not strongly enough yet to defeat him.

But ENOUGH to beat him? His supporters are afraid that it hasn't.

ROOSEVELT LOSSES.

Rooseveltians look to lose New England, with the possible but improbable exception of Massachusetts. They concede that Tammany (of doubtful loyalty) must bring them an enormous majority from the metropolis to offset "upstate" to enable their candidate to carry New York, Pennsylvania seems lost. Ohio is doubtful.

A Republican who can carry a few western states would seem to be fixed to give "F. D." a hot race, to say the least.

The late Huey Long's influence in the south is problematic.

Lawyer Shortage At Washington, D. C.

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—There is a shortage of lawyers, at least in this city.

Testifying before a House appropriations sub-committee, C. K. Burlew, administrative assistant to Secretary of Interior Ickes, said, "We have a great deal of difficulty in getting attorneys."

"One of the most flourishing businesses now is the 'law business,'" he added.

Engert Is Named As Ethiopian Minister

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Cornelius Van H. Engert of California today was nominated by President Roosevelt to be minister to Ethiopia. He has been first secretary of the American legation and consul-general at Addis Ababa.

By mild ripe tobacco we mean just this —

FIRST—ripened in the sunshine . . . and picked leaf by leaf from the right part of the stalk when fully ripe.

THEN—each day's picking cured right by the farmer . . . at the right time and in the right way . . . no "splotching" or brittleness, but every leaf of good color and flavor.

FINALLY—bought in the open market . . . re-dried for storage . . . then packed in wooden hogsheads to age and mellow for two years or more until free from harshness and bitterness.

That's what we mean by mild, ripe tobacco. And that's the kind of tobacco we use to give Chesterfields their milder, better taste.

Hogsheads of leaf tobacco "ageing" for two years in storage warehouses.

Picking leaf tobacco in the "Bright" tobacco fields of Virginia and the Carolinas.

Type of barn used for "flue-curing" leaf tobacco.

Outstanding . . . for mildness . . . for better taste

AROUND CITY HALL

Delinquent taxes in the city of New Castle for the years 1931-1935 total $497,061.38, it developed yesterday when an ordinance appropriating $50,000 for projects materials and charged against delinquent taxes was read. The delinquent taxes by years follow: 1931, $33,767.99; 1932, $81,551.83; 1933, $98,913.70; 1934, $123,284.47, and 1935, $159,543.39.

City of New Castle is now paying $15.00 a week to Jack Young, colored, to catch dogs in the city. According to Young, he has been catching more dogs this winter than during the summer time. When the money for the cars is received, according to Young, the fees will go to the city.

When the present police courtroom is remodelled for offices and the courtroom is moved to the second floor, rear of the City building, the desk now used by Mayor Charles E. McGrath will be moved to the new courtroom. It is the desk which former Judge W. D. Wallace used at the courthouse and which many years ago was brought to City Hall.

Mayor Charles E. McGrath stated recently that no immediate successor to the late Henry Dysart, inspector, legal bureau, will be appointed. Under an existing ordinance "man shall be designated as the inspector. There is some talk of some young attorney landing the job when, and if, the vacancy is filled.

Gossip has it that there is a big batch of voters who are going to be forced to change their registrations as to party affiliations. The thumb screws are being applied in regular Hitler fashion. There is scarcely a day that changes are not made, sometimes as high as a dozen in a day. Those who are changing may have to swallow their medicine at the primary, but there will be no way of Hitlerizing them at the election.

County Bar Association will be held at the Field Club on Saturday, Feb. 1, beginning at 6:30 p. m. The program committee is now at work. Invitations have been extended to jurists and attorneys in surrounding counties.

There were 48 instruments of all kinds recorded at the register and recorder's office last week. Of this number 28 were deeds and 13 were mortgages. The number of deeds was increased by the recording of those for properties sold at sheriff sale.

Petition to discontinue a suit filed by Royce Raubenalt, administrator, of Carol Raubenalt, against Mrs. Newmark, was granted at court today. The case grew out of an automobile accident in Wayne county, O., when Carol Raubenalt, aged four years, died as a result of being struck by Newmark's automobile on the Wooster-Loudenville road. It is claimed by Newmark that the girl stepped in front of his car. Suit was brought in Wayne county, O., and a judgment was secured. In newly elected city assessor, sat in at the conference in order to become acquainted with the changes that have been made.

Attorney Walter S. Reynolds, counsel for Mrs. Laura Linton and Mrs. Laura McCready, executrices in the Mary Taylor estate, has received another letter from Frederick John Taylor of Saskatchewan, Canada, who claims to be one of the heirs to the fortune left by Miss Taylor. The request was for data regarding the size of the estate. Taylor claims to be a first cousin of Mary Taylor, but according to Attorney Reynolds he has not furnished sufficient proof of his claim.

Attorney Thomas W. Dickey will be the principal speaker for the Club Fellowship Night dinner at the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening, January 29, it was announced today. The toastmaster for the evening program will be Attorney Kenneth M. McClure.

On Court House Hill

Bond in the sum of $700, given by Constable Joseph H. Wilson of Big Beaver township for the collection of taxes, has been approved by the court.

In the case of the commonwealth against John Wilson, charged with desertion and non-support, the court has granted a rule on Wilson to show cause why a process should not be issued, owing to failure to comply with the court's order.

About 2,500 dog licenses have been issued so far this year, according to County Treasurer Joseph Hartland. This represents less than half of the dogs in the county, according to the record for last year.

Road supervisors and auditors for the county will hold their annual convention at the courthouse on January 30. An interesting program on matters in connection with the maintenance of the highways is being prepared by the president, John B. Shaw.

START ANTI-ROOSEVELT MOVEMENT IN SOUTH

Georgia Governor Is Leading Factor

Plan Opposition To Re-nomination Of President At Philadelphia Sessions

TEXAS LUMBERMAN IS SHARING MOVE

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MACOM, Ga., Jan. 28.—On the heels of Al Smith's threat to "take a walk" during the 1936 presidential campaign unless the Roosevelt administration mends its way, there was started here in the deep south today—in the president's adopted state—an effort to defeat him for re-nomination.

It is sponsored by Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, outspoken foe of the administration, and by John H. Kirby, Texan lumberman, who has insured against a lot of things in his time. Jointly, tomorrow, they will convene a meeting of "Jeffersonian Democrats" invited from a dozen southern and border states. They say they expect an attendance of ten thousand anti-Roosevelt Democrats from these states.

Mutual Dislike Of Policies

There is no connection between the Talmadge-Kirby movement and Al Smith's threat to "take a walk" except their mutual dislike of Roosevelt policies. They are agreed in their denunciation of those policies as "Socialistic" and as "un-Jeffersonian," but there the connection ceases. With the bitter memories of 1918 still in their minds, the Democrats of the deep south don't want Al Smith as the nominee of the party, even if he were ambitious for it—which he isn't.

The sponsors of this "Jeffersonian" convention are emphatic that while the cooperation of the north-eastern states is welcomed because their objective is the same—the defeat of Mr. Roosevelt—this convention is wholly a southern undertaking.

Organize Dixie Democrats

"We will organize," said Kirby, "the Dixie Democrats in seventeen states, and we will see whether Mr. Roosevelt is not going to have some opposition at Philadelphia."

Whether the self-styled Jeffersonians will make a presidential nomination at their convention, or endorse a candidate, appeared problematical today. Their only avowed objective is to defeat Mr. Roosevelt at Philadelphia, to foment a revolution within the party that will make the June convention something more than merely a ratification meeting.

Sponsors of the meeting, which has been dubbed a "grass roots Democratic gathering," insist that the session has been called to stress principles, not candidacies.

Gov. Talmadge, the red-gallied Georgia leader whose firm "no" was the only dissenting voice to the Democratic national committee's recent resolution of Roosevelt endorsement, insists that the Macon convention has been called for two purposes.

"To save the Democratic party," he said, "and to save the country." To which Kirby added: "And to fight Socialism."

Red Tape Delays Grove City Work

GROVE CITY, Jan. 28.—Cutting the largest red tape that has delayed the start of a PWA project to supply secondary treatment equipment at the local sewage disposal plant borough officials have forwarded an agreement to Washington to bind the contractors to the use of American-made materials in the $75,000 job.

Another belated problem was solved when officials notified the contractor, the Henry Schenk Co. of Erie, to install a Jeffrey final settling tank, instead of the link-belt product which was optional in the contract. The Jeffrey tank is $209 cheaper than the other, and Federal PWA officials, who appropriated about $35,000 to the project, demanded that the lower bid be accepted. The link-belt equipment was selected to keep it the same type as that used in the present primary system.

Millions Of Old Dollar Bills Still Circulating

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Officials of the Treasury Department report that there are about 29,000,000 dollar bills of the old-fashioned type—the big bills—still in circulation.

July 10, 1929, when the smaller new bills were put into circulation, there was outstanding in old bills $3,122,955,681. From then on all old bills that came to bank were sent to the Treasury, where they were destroyed.

In the six and a half years since then, almost 95 per cent of the old money has been recovered and destroyed. But the remaining five per cent of the grand total is still a mighty big bad. It amounts to $248,948,680.

Among this missing money are the 29,000,000 one-dollar bills, $69,000,000 in $20 bills, and 49 bills each worth $10,000.

The Treasury is sure that the money is not in circulation, but either in safe deposit vaults or lost forever. Officials expect never to account for all of it. A great deal has been permanently lost or destroyed in fires and in ship disasters. Money is often buried with its dead owner by the deceased's relatives.

The Treasury will never set any date beyond which this old money is no good. It will always be spendable, except in cases in which the bills might have been issued by banks which have since gone out of business.

Less and less of the money comes in each month. In the last year officials recovered about $28,000,000 worth. In October and November only $4,000,000 came in to the Treasury.

Many persons are holding to some of the bills in different denominations on the theory that this money will eventually hold some rare value as collectors' items, for the next few generations. There's still too much of it on the market.

Bureaucracy Is Congress Worry

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Overlapping federal agencies and growth of bureaucracy is worrying members of Congress, hearings on the interior department appropriation bill, made public today, disclosed.

For example, the appropriations sub-committee found that several federal agencies have jurisdiction over bears.

More than a half dozen federal agencies are engaged in mapping-making activities. The sub-committee was told that the general land office will locate land corners and the coast and geodetic survey then will hunt them and mark them.

Bureau Of Education

There is a federal bureau of education. Also, the WPA has an educational program. The former FERA had one and the HOLC now has one of its own. There are others.

Rep. Scrugham (D) of Nevada asked representatives of the new bituminous coal commission if the Bureau of Mines could not gather statistics for which the bureau wanted $83,280 a year. Chairman C. F. Hosford, Jr., said the Bureau of Mines couldn't do it right. But Dr. John W. Finch of the Bureau of Mines said he could furnish the statistics with little added cost. The sub-committee, however, yielded to the coal commission.

Grove City Street May Be Widened

GROVE CITY, Jan. 28.—Another effort to relieve congested traffic conditions here is announced in the decision of Boro Council to widen Center street, between Blair and Main for four blocks if the project is approved under WPA. Four feet will be added on each side of the present street, if possible; if releases from damage cannot be secured from property owners, it is stated that three feet on each side can be added without interfering with trees or injuring private property.

A survey has been made by Boro Manager W. D. Breckenridge, listing the trees and poles that will have to be removed to secure the added width. Many of the trees are of no value, it is said. The street is an extension of a state highway, and as it parallels the main business street, it is used extensively.

There is much piping, cording, smoking and embroidery used for afternoon clothes. And something different are the colored metal prongs employed to conceal seams.

HERE ARE THE REAL FACTS ABOUT BRAN

Brought Out by Tests with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Some years ago, there was considerable difference of opinion regarding the use of bran. So to discover the actual facts of the case, the Kellogg Company asked for a series of laboratory tests at leading universities.

Experimental studies on a group of healthy women showed that the continued use of bran was thoroughly satisfactory. Unlike cathartics, it did not lose its effect.

Other independent tests on men indicated that, with certain people, the "bulk" in bran was more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables.

Laboratory analysis proved that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplied vitamin B and iron as well as plenty of bulk. This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle in action. It absorbs a great deal of moisture, and cleanses the intestinal tract.

ALL-BRAN corrects constipation due to insufficient "bulk." It is the natural way—far better than using pills and tablets. Serve as a cereal—or use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"Forgotten Man" Given Thought

Proposes That All Unemployed Men Be Eligible For Works Relief Jobs

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Senator Lewis Schwellenbach (D) of Washington, believes he has really found the "Forgotten Man," and has moved for his relief.

The "Forgotten Man," according to Schwellenbach, is the unemployed family head who has sold his home and used up life savings in order to stay off relief rolls. He said the regulation included in last year's work relief appropriations—that jobs shall be given first to those who have been on the relief rolls—was responsible for the plight of the unemployed man who has fought against receiving relief.

To remedy this situation, the senator has introduced an amendment to the work-relief legislation which would eliminate the provision giving preference to the relief-roll unemployed. His amendment would make all individuals who have been unemployed for more than six months eligible for work-relief jobs.

Democrats Open State Campaign

Launch Defense Of National Administration And Pledge Roosevelt Support

SELECT DELEGATES FOR CONVENTION

By ARTHUR H. WAKELEE
International News Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Jan. 28.—Opening Pennsylvania's 1936 political campaign, members of the Democratic party in the state struck today in defense of the national administration—pledged to support President Franklin D. Roosevelt—and launched their battle to gain control of the state senate and the commonwealth's fiscal offices in the forthcoming election.

Inaugural blasts of the approaching factional struggle were fired as members of the Democratic state committee met here to name the party's candidates and select representatives to the national convention, to be held in Philadelphia on June 23.

Name Candidates

Candidates named for the two fiscal offices to be filled were state senator Warren R. Roberts, Bethlehem, for auditor general and F. Clair Ross, Butler, a deputy attorney general, for state treasurer. In addition to selecting the candidates for the primary ticket, the convention also chose 16 delegates-at-large and a like number of alternate delegates to attend the national convention of the party.

Delegates selected included: Governor George H. Earle, Dauphin county; David L. Lawrence, secretary of the commonwealth, Allegheny; M. H. McCloskey, Jr., Montgomery; Thomas Kennedy, lieutenant governor, Luzerne; Robert L. Vann, Allegheny; A. Mitchell Palmer, Monroe; Attorney General Charles Margiotti, Jefferson; Edith B. Dewitt, Lycoming; Thomas A. Logue, secretary of internal affairs.

Philadelphia; John A. Phillips, Philadelphia; Anna O'Dea Murphy, Lackawanna; Samuel S. Pels, Philadelphia; J. Hale Steinman, Lancaster; George H. McWhirter, Westmoreland; George B. Rowland, Dauphin, and Alvin F. Fix, York.

Alternates Named

Alternate delegates named included: Mrs. Ella McFadden Browning, Delaware; Edward Dumbauld, Fayette; Wilson G. Sarig, house speaker, Berks; Thomas C. Buchanan, secretary of forests and waters, Beaver; Marie Bickert, Philadelphia; Ralph Bashore, secretary of labor and industry, Schuylkill; Arthur Colegrove, secretary of property and supplies, Erie; Emma Gutfey Miller, Allegheny; Asher Johnson McKean; Hester M. Frye, Greene; Margaret Rahilly, Philadelphia; Mrs. Katherine C. Henderson, Blair; Dr. Edith McBride Dexter, secretary of health, Mercer; Kathryn Flohr, Lehigh; Albert J. Reed, Washington and Mary Jane Clark, Allegheny.

In selecting 16 delegates and alternates, it was decided each would be entitled to a quarter vote. Members of the committee also adopted a resolution pledging the delegates to support President Roosevelt and vice president John N. Garner for re-nomination at the national convention.

Senate Probers Extend Inquiry

Seek To Ascertain Contributions To Semi-Political Organizations

ACTION FOLLOWS AL SMITH'S SPEECH

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—A searching inquiry into the financial operations of all semi-political organizations now fighting the Roosevelt administration, was started today by the Black senate lobby committee on the heels of Alfred E. Smith's Liberty League assault on the "New Deal."

Five thousand questionnaires were sent out by the committee to industrialists, bankers, merchants and business men, suspected of being "angels" to the anti-Roosevelt movements. The five thousand were asked to describe in every detail any contributions to the Crusade of the Crusaders, National Organization, Inc., Sentinels of the Republic, New York State Economic Council, American Federation of Utility Investors, Inc., and Alfred E. Smith's own American Liberty League.

The interrogated "angels" were asked to answer a host of questions about contributions, advances, loans and refunds and to make their answers under oath. Actually, the committee could not command replies to their questionnaires but it does have the power to subpoena anyone declining to answer and compel him to reply on the witness stand.

The whole procedure may develop a new constitutional issue, questioning the power of congress to investigate.

tigate as a part of a lobby inquiry the activities of semi-political organizations, which make no attempt to influence legislation directly by lobbying with congress. While some of the organizations under inquiry have lobbied before congress, others have devoted their efforts chiefly to attacks on the administration from public forums and in the press.

One of the questionnaires was reported to have been sent to Al Smith.

Senator Black (D) of Alabama, committee chairman, denied any intention of persecuting Smith or the Liberty League because of his attack upon Roosevelt policies. It was pointed out this phase of the lobby inquiry has been contemplated for weeks and the questionnaires prepared long before Smith made his speech.

Chief points in the questionnaire follow:

"1. Give names and addresses of corporations, partnerships or organizations with which you are connected.

"2. Give itemized statement of all sums contributed since January 1, 1934, to the Crusaders, Crusaders National Organization, Inc., American Liberty League, Sentinels of the Republic, New York State Economic Council, American Federation of Utility Investors, Inc., (American Federation of Investors, Inc.), and all other organizations of like or similar character or to any person or organization for the benefit of the above-mentioned organizations.

Local Clergymen Hear College
Professor Flay Bingo And Numbers Racket

Monday, at the scheduled bi-weekly meeting of the New Castle Ministerial Association in the First Presbyterian church, the guest speaker was Dr. J. Coleman, a professor at Geneva College, well known to New Castle audiences.

Dr. Coleman delivered an address on "Window Shopping for a Crimeless Civilization." He dealt strenuously and forcefully with the evils of gambling, bingo, the numbers racket, lotteries and their disastrous effects upon the minds of today's youth.

Dr. Coleman had been introduced by Dr. C. B. Winger. At the conclusion of his interesting discussion a rising vote of thanks was given by all ministers present.

Walter E. Myers, secretary of the State Sabbath School Association, was a special guest of the occasion and gave a brief talk.

Ready For Inquest In Racer's Death

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28.—Amid a rising storm of protest against auto racing fatalities, an inquest into the death of Al Gordon, veteran racer, and his mechanic, W. E. "Spider" Matlock, moving picture stunt man, will be held here tomorrow. It was announced today.

Gordon and Matlock met death in a 200-lap race Sunday when their car, presumably from skidding on oil on the track, plunged over an embankment.

Two Children Die In Blaze

Branch Of Hospital At Malvern, Pa., Is Destroyed
By Fire

(International News Service)

MALVERN, Pa., Jan. 28.—Police and fire officials today began an investigation of fire that destroyed the branch of the Rush hospital for the treatment of consumption here and cost the lives of two child patients.

Trapped in their beds by smoke and flame, John Laux and Edward Schumacher, both six year old invalids from Philadelphia, were burned beyond recognition. Only a check of 16 other children whom nurses, firemen and doctors bundled to safety disclosed the victims' identities.

A passing motorist, William Taylor of Malvern, was first to discover the blaze when he saw flames shooting from the side of the two-story frame structure of pavilion design. Taylor drove his car into the grounds and beat frantically upon the door.

PULASKI

BIBLE CLASS EVENT

One of the most charming of the mid-season parties was that given by the members of the Elizabeth Parson Bible class of the Presbyterian Sunday school, when they entertained their husbands and families as special guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Turner on Friday evening.

At 7 o'clock an elaborate chicken dinner was served. Covers were arranged for 47 at attractively decorated tables in the dining room. A beautiful cake, baked by Mrs. Fred E. Wallace, and decorated with five candles, in honor of the organization of the class, deserves special mention. C. C. Rodgers and Fred Rodgers were special guests. The evening was delightfully spent in a variety of games. Readings were given by Mrs. J. P. Buchanan and Mrs. Mary Jennings and a song by little Yvonne Nottingham. Mr. and Mrs. Turner was assisted in entertaining their guests by their daughter, Miss Helen Turner.

PULASKI NOTES

Mrs. E. Reese spent Monday the guest of friends in Youngstown.

Mrs. Dora Cover is the guest of her daughter, J. Stewart Price, of New Wilmington.

Mrs. Francis Taylor, Mrs. Roy C. Bilger and Mrs. John P. Clark were New Castle visitors Monday afternoon.

Miss Pearl Campbell, of New Castle, spent the week-end as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Sturdevant.

Mrs. Russell Craig and son Donnie, of Hubbard, who have been seriously ill with pneumonia, is improving.

Mrs. Edwin Thompson spent the past week at the Craig home.

Miss Mildred Hall, of Oil City has resigned as teacher of the Brown school to accept a position as teacher in the high school in Oil City.

Mrs. Florence McKibbin, of New Bedford, will fill the vacancy until a teacher is elected.

The special evangelistic meetings which have been held in the Methodist church for the past three weeks by the pastor, Rev. Earl Jay Jennings, closed on Sunday evening with Rev. W. R. Vaughn, of Edenburg, bringing the message. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Roy C. Bilger and Arthur W. Meek, with Wm. Quahle, of New Castle, song leader.

At the close of the services on Friday evening, Mrs. Francis Taylor a beautiful gift for her faithfulness and efficient services as pianist.

as the long cortege of soldiers and royalty and statesmen wound northward through throngs of the king's rain-soaked subjects who had waited all night to express their final tribute.

Just before 9:45 (London is five hours ahead of Eastern Standard time), the duke-draped coffin was borne out on the shoulders of stalwart grenadier guardsmen and placed on the same gun carriage that had taken Victoria and Edward VII to their graves.

The imperial state crown, its thousands of gems sparkling in the dull gray light of the overcast day, was carried by a team of four horses, the insignia of the Order of the Garter were then placed atop the coffin.

Signal To Start

Immediately the signal to start was given by the Earl Marshall, the 27-year-old duke of Norfolk, whose hereditary title of duke of Norfolk is the gun-carriage, which was drawn by 95 blue-jackets, with 50 others acting as a drag team.

The wind caught the king's standard and unfurled it, his head bowed and signs of the strain of the last week visible, took up his solitary position and walked along behind, followed by his royal brothers and the other British and foreign mourners.

More Than Mile Long

The procession was more than a mile long. At the start the head, in St. James street, near St. James's Palace received a wireless signal from Westminster, enabling the vanguard to start at the same time as the coffin.

Simultaneously the royal artillery detachment in Hyde Park, also notified by police radio, began firing 70 shots at one-minute intervals.

With slow and measured tread, detachments of the 28 regiments of which King George was colonel-in-chief swung into Piccadilly as the gun carriage bearing the dead king moved into Whitehall.

The uniforms of the British regiments were hardly more varied than those of the representatives of the armies, navies, and air forces of 31 foreign powers that had formed along Whitehall.

They included the Americans, Capt. A. J. Furer and Lieut. Col. Hays A. Kroner-Walker, who walked between the French and German military representatives.

Sky Brightens
The sky brightened as the central part of the cortege moved through the horse guards' parade into the mall and towards St. James's, revealing the beauty of the flowers in a simple wreath lying on the bier, rivaling the brilliance of the crown jewels.

The massed bands of the guards regiment broke into the funeral march as they passed through Whitehall in the shadow of the buildings where the government functions of the vast empire are carried out.

The spectators found that even the sorrow of the occasion failed to rob the cavalcade of its pageantry, as the dazzling uniforms and glittering decorations of many nations blended into one great, colorful whole, followed by a concourse of hundreds of high British officials just before the coffin.

Pale Faced King

Heads bowed and a murmuring sigh went through the crowd as King George's gun carriage passed. With a sad and pale face King Edward followed, striding slowly with naval precision, in his admiral's uniform, looking neither to the right nor left, his eyes fixed only on his father's coffin.

Passing the cenotaph at the foot of Whitehall where he has stood with or representing his father so many times, in Armistice Day ceremonies, the king seemed to brace himself, then saluted the empire's dead, his right arm sweeping around, palm inward, in the naval salute.

Five other kings of Europe marched on also saluting.

Then came the second poignant moment, as the queen mother rode by in a horse-drawn carriage with big glass windows. A black veil hid her face, and a handkerchief was clutched in her hand, but she sat upright and regal, as England has always known her.

Air Force Has Part

First in line were 1500 representatives of the king's own regiments followed by representatives of the foreign fighting forces.

This was the first British royal funeral in which the air force had a part, as there was no air force when King Edward VII was buried. The R.A.F. with the army and navy furnished guards of honor at Westminster Hall, Padding Station, and Windsor.

The highest officers of the army and the war office, then the officers of the navy and admiralty followed, with the king's aides-de-camp walking next.

Eight massed bands and massed pipers played funeral marches and old Scottish and Irish laments as the wheels of the carriage crunched over the sanded streets. Handel's dead march from Saul, Beethoven's funeral march No. 1, the March Solennelle of Panne, Chopin's funeral march No. 2 solemnly sounded over the strangely hushed thousands.

Preceding the coffin was the lone figure of the young duke of Norfolk, the first peer of the realm, then the strange sight of the royal carriage pulled by sailors of Gloucester and Kent, and the new king in the full dress uniform of an admiral.

Immediately behind King Edward came the present heir apparent, the duke of York, and the king's other two brothers, the dukes of Gloucester and Kent, also in naval uniform. The earl of Athlone, King Haakon of Norway, the crown prince of Denmark, the crown prince of Rumania, followed by King Leopold of the Belgians and King Boris of Bulgaria.

FINAL TRIBUTE TO KING GEORGE PAID AT WINDSOR

Windsor Castle and counting off the 70 years of the late monarch's age, started booming as King Edward VIII stepped from the train to the platform.

He was followed immediately by his sorrowing mother, Queen Mary, who entered a glass-paneled coach drawn by a pair of the famous Windsor greys.

The Duchess of York and the nine-year-old Princess Elizabeth, her daughter and grand-daughter of the late king, joined her.

The entire assembly, forming for the procession of the royal chapel, was motionless as the monarch's body was brought from the train coach to the gun-carriage bearing it through the streets.

Delay Mixes Program

A misunderstanding over timing, due partly to delay in the funeral train's departure from London, caused great confusion over observance of the solemn two-minute silence in Windsor.

The original schedule for observance at 1:30 p. m., was throughout the empire, some sections of the crowd and some of the troops stood at attention then.

Others, because the king was not being lowered into his burial vault at this time, in accordance with original plans, and because there was no general signal, moved around smoking and chattering.

As King George's coffin was carried from the royal train to the waiting gun-carriage two boatswains and eight boatswain's mates stood by. A shrill boatswain's whistle was sounded as the coffin was placed aboard the gun-carriage, the king being "piped aboard" the carriage in death as an admiral would be "piped aboard" a ship of the royal navy in life.

Buried With Admiral Honors

This theme was carried out right up to the chapel door, the king being buried with full honors as an admiral of the fleet. Early in life he was trained for sea while his older brother was heir to the throne. George never lost a deep love for the sea.

As the cortege formed at the station sidewalks were black with people, scores fainting as the cortege moved off.

The gun-carriage was drawn by 95 sailors, with 40 more walking "astern" on drag lines.

Immediately following the gun-carriage walked King Edward, haggard in face. He paced with hands clasped before him, and his head bowed. His boots were stained with mud. He appeared a pathetic figure in his grief and care.

Same As London Procession

The procession was substantially the same as that which a short while before had trudged through the streets of London. The main difference involved the naval honors accorded the late monarch.

A naval guard of honor from H. M. S. Drake, with colors draped, a gun team, and an escort of members of the king's company of gunners were awaiting the arrival of the train. The grenadiers all were men of over six feet in height, and the stature appeared increased by their tall busbies, high, black, bearskin hats.

To the gun team a "caps off" order was given. Each man removed his cap and bent his head, and the entire procession remained as the king's body was "piped aboard" the gun-carriage.

Then the procession started, already more than half an hour late. It passed through crowded streets and into the grounds of Windsor Castle, past the round tower and the horseshoe cloisters to the steps of the chapel.

At the steps King George's body was "piped over the side," the boatswain's shrill whistle again sounding as if an admiral were lowering his ship as the body was borne inside for the final rites.

Body Received At Chapel

The body was received at the west door of the chapel by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of Winchester, the Bishop of Oxford, the Dean of Windsor, Canons, minor Canons and Lay Clerks and chorists.

As the procession moved up into the nave of the chapel, headed by the choir and clergy, the opening sentences of the burial service were chanted by the choir.

The Earl Marshall, the young Duke of Norfolk and the Lord Steward walked immediately in front of the coffin, which was followed by King Edward and other members of the royal family.

King Edward stood at the head of the coffin and the Lord Steward at its foot as the services began.

Royal Mourners, Knight of the Garter and members of foreign royalty occupied the whole choir stalls. The remainder of the congregation, numbering about 1,000, occupied the nave.

The 32nd Psalm was sung, and then the Bishop of Winchester, as prelate of the Order of the Garter, read the lesson, reciting the first seven verses of Revelation, chapter XXI.

"And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea."

"And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more sea...."

"And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away...."

"He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son."

Sing Favorite Hymn
When the bishop finished reading the entire congregation unaccompanied, sang the late king's favorite hymn, "Abide With Me."

The choir, unaccompanied, then sang the sentence "I Heard a Voice From Heaven."

Prayers were then offered by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, and Sir Gerald W. Wollaston, Garter King at Arms, pronounced the "styles" of the late king.

The Archbishop of Canterbury then pronounced the benediction, and the coffin was lowered through a great opening in the chapel floor down into the burial vaults below, the archbishop committing the body to rest at 2:15 a. m.

This was exactly 45 minutes before the funeral train departed for London.

"Buy American" Plans Develop Rapid Growth

Hope To Mobilize Purchasing Power Of Nation Behind Home Products

By ARTHUR B. DONEGAN

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—In a mid-town skyscraper here a group of direct action devotees is planning a series of well-timed, strictly American, kicks in the slats for economic depression.

They are limbering up the kicking leg and anticipate going into action within the next 60 days. At that time, they hope to have in full swing a nation-wide campaign to mobilize the purchasing power of the country behind American-manufactured goods with consumers directly pledged to buy American-made wares in preference to competing foreign manufactures.

Representatives of approximately 150 industries have already pledged their cooperation in the drive, it was said today at the headquarters of the group, which has incorporated as the Made In American club. "We have also received between 100,000 and 150,000 individual pledges," said Capt. Frank X. Eble, managing director of the American

Match Institute, who has been in charge of the organization campaign. "And we're being swamped with fan mail from all over." The club is working through manufacturers and industries who have aligned themselves with the drive. Cards pledging signers to "Buy American" are sent to them and distributed to employees with their pay checks and envelopes. Signing the pledges, he pointed out, is purely voluntary. The response so far, Eble said, is "most gratifying," particularly from the industrial centers of the country. The campaign now is being concentrated to reach small manufacturing establishments employing between 25 and 100 persons.

Say Bank Robberies Are Showing Decrease

By GEORGE KENNEDY
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Banks of the country, at last, are getting the upper hand in the war on bank robbers. Bandit loot from banks decreased sharply last year. And with more banks making themselves "robber proof" a further drop is looked for in 1936.

In fact, bank robbery may disappear in time as completely as has safe-cracking. Authority for these statements is H. D. Brailsford, of the Underwriters Laboratories who from his New York office directs testing of protective devices against bank robbers and burglars.

Chief reason for the decrease of bank holdups, Brailsford said today, is the installation of "bulletproof" enclosures to protect the lives of officers and employees. Between 700 and 1,000 banks have already adopted these to protect vaults and cages and this defense measure has already changed the bank robbery picture.

Greatest difficulty in finding a "bullet proof" defense, he said, was in getting a transparent glass that would withstand pistol and machine gun bullets and in designing "deal trays" through which money and bank books could be passed but which would not admit a gun.

First part of the problem was solved by testing steel and glass partitions on the underwriters' firing range in Chicago. Only those resistant to pistol and machine gun fire were approved.

British Astronomers Will Make Trip Half Way 'Round Globe For 2-Minute Eclipse

(International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Two parties of British astronomers will travel half way round the world to watch the total eclipse of the sun on June 19.

Professor F. M. Stratton, director of the Solar Physics Observatory at Cambridge, will go to a point on the northeast coast of the island of Hokkaido. Professor J. A. Carroll, of the University of Aberdeen, who is to lead the second party, has not yet decided between Siberia, where the eclipse will be at its most favorable, and Japan, to which it is considered that transport may be easier.

General arrangements have been made by the Joint Permanent Eclipse Committee of the Royal Society and the Royal Astronomical Society.

British observations will be mainly concentrated on examinations of the sun's upper atmosphere and on the corona—the impressive "streamers" which may be seen during eclipse stretching out from the sun disc, sometimes to a greater length than the full width of the sun.

When sunspots are few, these streamers are seen folded into the form of a pair of wings stretching outwards from the equator, but when the sun's activity is greatest, the corona resembles a flower with long, thin petals stretching out equally in all directions.

This year, according to Dr. H. Spencer Jones, the British Astronomer Royal, the form of the corona will probably be intermediate. There should be about an even chance, he added, of good observing conditions at each station. Testing of Einstein's theory of relativity by measuring the bending of light from a star as it passes near the eclipsed sun will not be possible.

Dr. Spencer Jones explained. No stars bright enough will be available.

Professor Carroll explained that the Russians were anxious to offer all possible facilities and prospects of a Siberian expedition appeared reasonably good. He is to make two series of special observations.

One will be designed to measure the rotation and internal movement of the corona, the other to obtain new knowledge of the temperature and pressure in the sun's upper atmosphere.

He will have with him Dr. Waterfield, well-known English amateur who will be making further observations of his own; H. L. Webster, formerly of the Cavendish Laboratory, at Cambridge and W. M. Alexander, the two latter as voluntary assistants.

Professor Stratton will undertake the analysis of different levels of the sun's upper atmosphere. He will also make records of the effect of the eclipse on the radio-reflecting layers of the earth's upper atmosphere.

It is believed that the activity of these layers is maintained by ultraviolet rays from the sun which, like visible light, are completely cut off during total eclipse. His chief assistant will be Dr. Redman, assistant director of the Solar Physics Observatory.

Expeditions will also be sent out by many other countries including the United States, Italy, Rumania and Holland.

The complete eclipse band stretches from the Mediterranean through the Sea of Marmora and the Black Sea on through the Caucasus, across the heart of Siberia, through Omsk and Tomsk, to northern Japan. Only in the middle of Siberia will the sun be at its highest point at the moment of eclipse.

Total eclipse will last for two and one-half minutes, compared with one and three-fourths for the Canadian eclipse of 1932.

For Bad Winter Coughs, Mix This Remedy Yourself

Saves Good Money! No Cooking!

If you want the best cough remedy that money can buy, mix it at home. It costs very little, yet it's the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of distressing coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing. Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. To make syrup, use 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money—a real family supply. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, helps clear the air passages, and thus ends a bad cough in a hurry.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous for its effect in stopping coughs quickly. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

My New York By James Aswell

(Copyright, 1936, by Central Press Assn.)
NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Thank Heaven for "Ethan Frome." There is actually a play now running in New York which deals with the tragedies which befall men and women rather than the playwright's quivering under what he terms "the economic system"—i.e., the necessity for making a living.

We have been treated to a rash of what were really miracle plays. From the bumbling and heavy-lidded poeies of "Winterse" through the platform harangues of Comrades Odele and Rice to the pious sermonising behind footlights of Dr. John Haynes Holmes, 99% of this season's dramatic offerings have contained no characters but types or abstractions.

Several times I have thought I was about to witness a play involving old-fashioned emotions such as love and hate and getting ahead in the world. Along about Act II, however, the picket line began to form at the left, all the people in the play who were regularly employed were revealed as villains and the young hobo with bedroom eyes began to insinuate that he was no mere character but an actor in a larger drama: he was The Present. He was the playwright in the days before he found out a soapbox on a Broadway was more profitable than the old stand in Union Square.

Not so "Ethan Frome." There is a charming horse-and-buggy quality about this play, as adapted by workmanlike Owen Davis from the Edith Wharton novel. It is not a pretty play; it is, indeed, as gloomy as the devil. But the people in it are palpable human beings and not, according to the fashion of the time, reincarnations of Adam Smith and Karl Marx in debating school, with old love-sick money-complexed Prof. Marx getting all the fat lines.

Pauline Lord, one of the finest actresses of our time, makes you alternately despair and feel sorry for her; she is Mrs. Frome to the life and Raymond Massey, a British-Canadian, manages to swallow his broad "a's" and become a northern New Englander without a single false note. The Fromes are hard-bitten folk on a rocky and frigid farm and when Ethan has no money with which to cope with the hired girl it never occurs to him to blame either Prof. Frankfurter or J. P. Morgan. He knows, as did many of his lost an. realistic generation, that the blame cannot be properly allocated, along with the blame for most of the sorrows of this world, without a touch of blasphemy and so he does not bother to blame anyone at all.

"Ethan Frome" has another rare quality: it comes from the pages of a book with neither the mood nor the manner in any way cheapened by grease-painted. All of the simplicity remains and I imagine Mrs. Norton was cheered to see her fine novel so intelligently handled.

Incidentally, when two acts of this play had unfolded, your reporter remarked his joy to Clark Kinnaird, another Central Press scribe, to be witnessing a show once more in which the characters were men and women rather than the hysterics scribbled on the sandwich-boards of protest-paraders.

Kinnaird, a dour fellow in his gayer mood, remarked: "I don't believe it yet. Someone told me that in the last act the whole cast joins in singing the 'Internationale'."

But clearly his informant was kidding. And I say once again, thank Heaven and the muses for "Ethan Frome."

Vaughn, Dean, And Stark In Holdout Class

Arky And "Dizzy" Think Services Are Worth Plenty Of What It Takes

UMPIRE STARK IS GETTING "RITZY"

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—At the bottom of some of the sports pages hereabouts today is found the announcement that Arky Vaughn thinks he hasn't been offered enough money for 1936 by the Pittsburgh club. The young man is probably right, but what of it? After all, he's only the batting champion of both leagues. In another column down below may be found the further remarks of Branch Rickey to his pitcher, a Mr. Herman Dean, telling him that he's a detriment, a pain in the elbow and altogether a no good, net.

Dean Wants More Money

This is Mr. Dean who has won 58 games in the last two years, as against less than 100 for his ball nine, but the silly season in the National League wasn't officially on until you went to the top of the page and discovered that Umpire Dolly Stark was holding out for more money.

"If I can't get more," said the embittered and unhappy man, "I'm ready to try something else."

Personally, I've heard of a lot of people who have tried something else and are now trying to sleep in Central Park. I understand that Stark is paid better than $9,000 a year, with full expenses for the six months of the baseball season, which is some thousands better than Mr. Dean received in 1934 for winning thirty games, the pennant and the world series.

Van Mungo Holdout.

There are a couple of additional National League holdouts at this time, Van Mungo, of the Dodgers, and Clyde Castellan, of the Giants, by way of adding to the general hilarity. But they seem to be quite commonplace. They're funny that way, they want more money and, in the matter of Mungo versus Brooklyn, the explanation is quite simple.

The club held him out of all the purported trades offered to this winter; so he's now holding out on the club.

The umpire situation is pretty simple, too, meaning a little light headed and not quite bright. Two of them, Mr. Quigley and Mr. Moriarty, recently tried to play the World series on behalf of their respective leagues and at least one of them had to be called in and told that he wasn't a principal, but only one of the help.

Wants Increase

Meantime, Mr. Stark who wasn't asked to become an umpire in the first place and of course need not stay if it makes him brood, was voted the most valuable of the National league staff and also an automobile from his friends in the Bronx. All of this seems to have complicated life a little for Umpire Stark, adding qualms and symptoms to an otherwise well ordered existence.

I don't think he understands, for instance, that in the amusement business they're all playing with rate or sucker money and the guy with sucker appeal gets the chips. Anyhow, not even a man's relatives will go out to watch him umpire.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Norman Quarles of Norfolk, Va., lost a 10 round decision to Lew Feldman of New York last night at Pittsburgh. Feldman sent Quarles to the floor with a right smash to the jaw in the first round. The southerner arose at the count of three and the bell rang as Lew was measuring Quarles off. Quarles took only one round, the ninth. While this scrap was going on the welterweight champion Barney Ross was taking the toughness out of Lew Halper of Philadelphia in Halper's home town. The referee stopped and awarded the bout to Ross after he had knocked down Halper and who was on the verge of being knocked down again.

Willie Hunter of Los Angeles, blasted the Lake Mercer golf course of San Francisco with sub-par golf yesterday on the last round and beat Willie Goggin of San Francisco, 4 and 2, for the San Francisco match play open title. He won the first prize of $1,675. Goggin took down $837.50.

Edward C. Rogers of Glen Cove, N. Y., went into the lead in the National Amateur Pocket Billiards championship at New York last night when he beat George Courtney of New York, 125 to 82, in 17 innings. The victory gave Rogers four victories against one defeat and enabled him to pull away from the champion, J. Howard Shoemaker of New York, who has three victories and one defeat.

Grand circuit stewards pointed to a 13 weeks program instead of nine weeks race calendar this season. New tracks were added, namely, the Wisconsin state fair at Milwaukee, the Ohio state fair at Columbus and the historic Goshen, N. Y. track. Grand circuit events also were authorized in the far west. Meets will be held at Pomona, seat of the Los Angeles fair, San Diego and Phoenix.

Bucky Harris, manager of the Senators, said at Washington today, he will become an active second baseman this spring but only long enough to teach Cecil Travis to play shortstop. Travis was shifted from third base to left field last season but now, with Jesse Hill from New York and Carl Reynolds from Boston, along with the holdovers, Jake Powell, Fred Schulte, Dee Miles and John Stone, the Senators find a plethora of outfielders and an uncertain left side of the infield. John Stone, a rookie from Chattanooga is listed as third so Travis will go to shortstop.

There have been as many as five boxers in one family but seldom does one find five wrestlers in one family. However, there are that many in the family rear by Mr. and Mrs. Dusek and Joey, the youngest of the quintet, will attempt to down Joe Savoldi of Notre Dame football game, Thursday night at Pittsburgh. The last time they met they wrestled to a 90 minute draw at St. Louis.

Rudy Cartside, all-around Southwestern college athlete, is a "holdout". He frankly admitted at Memphis "You won't find me on the roles of Southwestern next semester unless they make me a better offer." What the "better offer" must be, Rudy declined to say, except to add "It will have to be a lot better than last year." Coach Probst said that while Southwestern did not subsidize its athletes, Cartside would be back on the athletic teams so far as he knew.

Adrian Quist won the Australian lawn tennis singles championship when he defeated Jack Crawford in the final round, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 3-6, 9-7 at Adelaide.

Barney Ross Whips Halper

Welterweight Champion Shows Plenty Of Class In Philadelphia Bout

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 28.—Barney Ross, welterweight champion of the world, today amply had proven his right to that crown by an eight-round knockout over Lew Halper in a non-title bout here.

Down once on a slip in the seventh round, Halper was stretched on the canvas for a count of eight in the next frame and Ross was declared the winner when referee Frank Knaresboro stopped the battle.

Halper put on a whirlwind display in the opening round that had the champion on the defensive, but a straight right to Halper's jaw in the second round the Newark lad on his heels. After losing the third and fourth rounds, Halper stood toe to toe and slugged with the welterweight king in a desperate rally. The telling punishment, however, hastened Ross victory with some of the 6,000 fans demanding the fight be stopped as Halper became helpless in the seventh.

St. Pauls Tie For Leadership In Church Loop

Defeat Tifereth Israel 29 To 14, As First Presbyterianians Lose

CLOSE RACE FOR CHURCH A HONORS

St. Pauls Lutheran church basketball team went into a deadlock with the First Presbyterians last night at the Y. M. C. A. floor in the Church A basketball league, by defeating the Tifereth Israel team 29 to 14. The First M. E. boys defeated the First Presbyterians 31 to 23 in the other church league game.

Grief Is Star
The St. Pauls boys had to come from behind in the first half 7 to 5 to take the victory, with Grief taking the spotlight in the second half with five field goals and a foul for 11 of the points. The Jewish boys could not get clicking the second half making but seven points against 24 for the St. Pauls team.

Clark and Cloak were the big point-men in the First M. E. upset of the league leaders, the latter having 16 of the points for the Methodists. The First M. E. boys declared themselves right in the middle of the race for the church A championship by virtue of their victory.

Harmony Team Wins
In the third game, a non-league battle the Third U. P. team lost to the Shenango church league 25 to 23 in a well played and interesting game, in which the Third U. P. led at the first half 13 to 12, but could not match speed of the Harmony boys in the last two periods. The playing of Laitenen was the feature for the Harmony boys with 12 of the points. Kimmel and Kerr led the Third U. P. team at bat.

Games Wednesday In Church League

Three games will be played in the Church AA Basketball League at the Y. M. C. A. floor Wednesday night, it was announced by Henry MacNicholas today. The first game will start at 8 o'clock.

The First Baptists and Sacred Hearts will play in the first game which is the feature of the bill. The leadership of the league will be at stake in this battle.

The First Christians will play the Epworth M. E. quintet in the second game, and the St. Nicholas team will meet the Central Christians in the third game.

Mr. Bradley Learns About Third Basemen From Hale

By BILL BRAUCHER
Central Press Sports Editor

During the winter, little Arvel Odell (Bad News) Hale, third baseman of the Cleveland Indians, was very much on the market. But, not now!

Therein lies a chapter in the baseball education of Cleveland Magistrate Alva Bradley (who once had his picture taken in baseball uniform with Senator Huey Long). Until this winter, Bad News was regarded by Owner Bradley as just a fellow filling in at third base until a good third baseman came along.

Placed on the market, Hale was found to be in demand by nearly every club in the American league, and Mr. Bradley took him off the market just like that. The Cleveland magnate discovered that Bad News was regarded as one of the great young players of the game.

Magnate Bradley explains his indifference to Hale by the fact that he had been "too close" to Hale to realize his worth. Life is like that, eh, wot?

Around The Bases
Branch Rickey, originator and operator of the St. Louis Cardinals' baseball farm chain system, is the highest paid official in the game. In 1934 his salary and bonus totaled $49,470. One way to make farms pay, eh, Si?

Going back to the Indians again, Infielder Roy Hughes is one young man who finds himself in an advantageous position. Hughes was a stop gap last year, filling in at shortstop until Knickerbocker recovered from an appendicitis operation. He did so well and for $2,500 a year that when Lou Berger slumped at second after Knicker's return, Hughes was tossed into the breach and performed like a major.

This year Hughes was offered $4,000. He has been insisting that his value for 1936 is not less than $6,000 on the hoof.

Since the Indians have only five infielders on their roster, including Hughes, he holds a strategic vantage point.

Howell Back With Tigers
One of the 16 rookies who will be trying to take the Detroit Tigers regulars' jobs away from them is your old friend Dixie Howell, star of the 1935 Rose Bowl football game. Dixie hit well with Birmingham and Boston.

year, but probably will be farmed out for another year at Birmingham. Howell is an infielder.

One of the reasons for so many rookies is unofficially believed to be Marvin Owen. The Tigers' third baseman slipped during the latter part of the 1935 pennant campaign.

Gloves Mightier Than Musket
Primo Carnera finds fighting in the United States much more pleasant than fighting in Ethiopia for Italy. Da Preem was in the Italian army something like two weeks before they discovered he had the satchel feet, or something of the sort, whereupon he was told to stand. He scattered right back to the land of the free and the home of the brave where he will carry on his own private war, at a slightly greater profit than Italian soldiers realize for their efforts in Ethiopia.

He beat Willie Goggin, youthful San Franciscan, by the margin of 4 and 2 in the 36-hole finals yesterday.

To the victor goes $1675; to the loser $837.50.

Sacred Hearts League Leaders

Sacred Hearts Are Being Pressed Hard By Epworth M. E. And Baptist

According to the dope submitted by Delbert Jackson "The Big Figure" man of the New Castle Church basketball league the Sacred Hearts are topping the Church AA league today with ten victories and two defeats, and are being pressed mightily hard by the Epworth M. E. quintet and the First Baptist.

The Hearts and Baptists tangle tomorrow night in what should be the feature of the season. The Epworths can tie for the lead providing they upset the First Christians and the Sacred Hearts drop to the Baptists.

There is more interest in the church floor league this year than ever before, owing to the class of the various teams. Some merry scrapes will take place before the season is ended.

TRUST CAP ANSON TO FIND CIRCUS IN EGYPT

Back in 1888, Adrian C. (Cap) Anson toured the world with an All-American baseball team. The boys played ball in Italy, France and even in the shadow of the pyramids in Egypt.

One night in Cairo, Mr. and Mrs. Anson drove around the city in search of a theater. They came to a palatial building so the carriage was stopped and the Ansons went to the door. The attendant couldn't speak English but because of the lights and music Cap judged it was a circus.

"Pretty swell sort of a circus," Anson said to his wife. There were several parties of ladies and gentlemen in full dress.

Cap looked around for tickets. But he couldn't find anyone selling them. Finally he met a dark and distinguished man in full uniform. Cap asked him where he could buy the necessary pastebords.

"Tickets? What tickets?" the man asked in very good English, but in a surprised tone.

"Why, the tickets for the circus here," Anson answered nervously. "There is no circus here, my friend," the man continued. "This is my private residence. I am commander-in-chief of the Egyptian army and am simply entertaining a few friends here tonight. I would be much pleased if you would remain, and—"

But the Ansons, embarrassed, did not remain.

Polish Falcons Suffer Defeat At Youngstown

The Polish Falcons lost to the Shamrocks of Youngstown, O., at the Ohio floor by a score of 24 to 21 it was announced today.

Last Saturday night the Falcons defeated the Franklin Eagles to the tune of 42 to 25 in a very interesting battle despite the lopsided score.

Sunday the Falcons nosed out the Wolf's Head team of Oil City by a score of 34 to 26. To date the Falcons have won 20 and lost three games.

Tomorrow night the Falcons will go to Beaver Falls for a battle with the Purple Hearts.

Joe Kolodjeski, the star Falcon guard will be out of the lineup for several weeks with a broken nose.

Bath And Treest To Fight Tonight

Jack Kearns Will Show His Newest Heavyweight In Chicago Tonight

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Tonight is the night Chicagoans will find out if Hank Bath can fight or Jack Kearns is just talking through his derby.

It is argued Kearns must have implicit faith in his protegee or he wouldn't be sending him in against Billy Treest. Chicagoans know Treest can go a lick, for they have seen him in most of his 19 professional engagements, of which he has won 17.

On the other hand Bath has scored 37 victories, all but one by knockouts, but the victories have been made here and there against this and that and his record is a bit sullied by the action of the New York boxing commission in refusing for some unknown reason, to let him fight in New York.

So Bath's 10-round battle with Treest here tonight is expected to be the acid test for the Colorado youngster who Kearns says he will pay into another million dollar attraction.

Bath and Treest appear in the windup of an all-heavyweight card, the third in the local elimination which is expected to uncover a victim for Joe Louis.

Athletic Dispute At Wisconsin U.

(International News Service)
MADISON, Wis., Jan. 28.—The University of Wisconsin board of regents will open their investigation into the athletic controversy raging on the campus today.

The situation involves football coach Dr. Clarence Spears, Director of Athletics Dr. Walter Meanwell, and Captain-elect of the '36 football team John Golemske.

It arose when Golemske circulated a petition among members of the football squad, at the instigation of Meanwell. Golemske has asserted in affidavits, demanding the dismissal of Spears.

Organize Classes In Wampum District

Many Are Interested In Classes Forming For Adult Education In The Wampum School

Monday evening classes in Adult Education were organized at Wampum, with many adults of the district in attendance at the initial meeting. H. W. Hunter is head teacher of the county, and the following classes will be held Monday and Wednesday evenings from 8 to 10 o'clock:

Typewriting, shorthand, bookkeeping. Miss Sibberson.
Drafting and mathematics. Mr. Owens.

Reading, writing, spelling, citizenship. Mr. Cuba.
If enough interest is shown, Miss Braham will conduct classes in civics or economics.

COLLEGE TOWN ROTARY HEARS JUDGE BRAHAM
Judge W. Walter Braham gave the principal address at a dinner which New Wilmington Rotarians sponsored for New Wilmington's Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts in the college town last night.

Betty Jane Cope, this city, gave several readings and little Ellen Murphy danced and sang to the piano accompaniment of her sister, Mary Louise, Mrs. Stewart Cope and Mrs. Oscar Murphy, mothers of the performers, were guests.

Dr. Frederick Taylor was chairman of the dinner.

Mark Sullivan says doughboys learned to like being regimented. We notice that few remained single.

Council To Name Appointees Friday
When council meets Friday at the City Building some appointments to non-salaried berths will be made. It is anticipated that most of the persons who now hold positions on the Recreation Board, Planning and Zoning Commissions will be re-appointed.

If a woman has a husband, a fur coat, a car and a home, she has everything she wants except another bedroom.

Millions Stand Along Streets To Watch Funeral Procession

WORST CRUSH AT MARBLE ARCH

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Jan. 28.—King George's dolorous journey to his grave at Windsor was made half and hour late, elaborate plans to time his interment precisely with two minutes of empire-wide silence were upset, and scores were crushed into insensibility today by the sheer volume of mourners who lined the route of the funeral march.

At Marble Arch, a stilling jam of 10,000 repeatedly broke through police lines, until the princes and diplomats walking behind the late king's coffin had to squeeze through a line of heterogeneous humanity ranging from the nobility to cockney mourners from the slums.

The mass of spectators, pressed forward from behind in movements like a gigantic earthquake fault, might almost have reached out and touched the purple drapes on the king's casket, or even the hundreds of jewels on the priceless imperial crown, scepter, and orb that rested, uncovered and unguarded, upon the pall.

More than a score of men and women were treated at hospitals for severe injuries, while there was a constant stream of fainting cases and painful bruises taken to the first aid stations that had been set up in Hyde Park.

Police said at least 500 were treated as a result of the Marble Arch disturbances alone.

With more delays in the slum areas farther along the line, the funeral train, scheduled to leave Paddington station at high noon, did not steam out until 12:28 p. m. It arrived at Windsor at 1:08, more than half an hour behind schedule, and services in St. George's chapel there did not begin until 2 p. m.

For days, under direction of the youthful earl marshal, rehearsals had been carried out so that when the king was lowered into the sepulchre, silence would reign for two minutes throughout one quarter of the globe.

But it proved impossible to speed up arrangements at Windsor, and equally impossible to postpone the period of silence, which was held as planned at 1:30 p. m., while the king's body was between Windsor station and castle.

The fault in most gifts is that they aren't worth a darn for anything except as gifts.

NIAGARA FALLS—DOESN'T FALL

Like gigantic stalactites, huge icicles hang from the now solid crest of the American falls at Niagara. The cataract's roar is diminished by an ice-jammed river and snow stops the flow of water, except over the Horseshoe falls. The ice jam down river was said to be the worst in 30 years.

Eighty-Eight At League Institute In Mahoning M. E.

Mid-winter Institute Opens Last Night With Fine Attendance

With Epworth Leaguers present from nine Methodist Episcopal churches of the New Castle Sub-District, Epworth, First, Croton, New Wilmington, Volant, Wesley, Pulaski, New Bedford and Mahoning, the mid-winter institute received an auspicious opening in the Mahoning M. E. church Monday night.

Eighty-eight young people were enrolled in the course and took great interest in the first of the three evening series of classes. At the conclusion of the study period they enjoyed a social hour and a lunch.

Classes will be continued tonight and will be open to all Epworth League members regardless of whether or not they enrolled last night.

The institute will close Wednesday evening with a candlelight communion service.

Officer Laid Off After Ball Trouble

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 28.—Patrolman E. L. Schultz of the Butler police department has been suspended for leaving his post of duty, Mayor George M. Thompson announced today. The suspension was decided upon after investigation of a fight that broke out at the Butler-New Castle high school basketball game Friday night, to which Patrolman Schultz had been assigned.

The inquiry revealed that the officer had left the building before the game was ended and was not on hand at the time an altercation developed in the closing seconds of play.

Start Plans To Provide Bonus

Two And Half Billion Dollars To Be Made Available By June 15

BABY BONDS TO MEET PAYMENTS

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Just a little over 17 years after the last shot of the World war was fired, official machinery swung into gear here to day to make nearly two and a half billion dollars in bonuses available to 3,500,000 veterans June 15.

President Roosevelt had bowed to the overwhelming demand of congress that the bonus be written off the books now and ordered the treasury and veterans' administration to start on the huge job of bookkeeping at once.

Send Out Applications
Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, today sent out application blanks for the "baby bonds" bonus. They were sent to the regional offices of the administration and the various service organizations for distribution to the veterans.

But congress and many thousands of taxpayers were waiting for one further possible move by the president—a demand that new taxes be levied to meet the extra burden on the treasury.

When Mr. Roosevelt vetoed the bonus bill eight months ago, he said failure of congress to provide such additional taxes "in itself and by itself alone warrant disapproval."

When he renewed his veto last week, he asserted that everything he said in his message of May, 1935, still held good.

This being a campaign year, congressional bonus advocates—including many administration leaders—insist no new taxes are necessary; that the treasury can borrow to retire the adjusted service certificates.

Over 800,000 Persons Pass Bier Of King

(International News Service)
LONDON, Jan. 28.—When the heavy doors to Westminster Hall slammed shut at 4 o'clock this morning, 809,182 subjects had braved rain, wind, hunger, and fatigue to file past the bier of King George during the four days his body lay in state. In a queue that stretched for nearly two miles, crossing the Thames and doubling back on itself, 206,170 shuffled through the hall yesterday and this morning.

Alien Who Caused Butler Trouble, Dead

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 28.—Peter Z. Ross, the man who was the star witness for District Attorney Edgar H. Negley in the county home furor two years ago, died here after a lingering illness from heart's disease.

Ross was a native of Italy and had resided at the county home for a number of years.

A jury failed to sustain the charges of assault and battery made by Ross against officials at the poor farm.

CONSTIPATED 30 YEARS

"For thirty years I had chronic constipation. Sometimes I did not go for four or five days. I also had awful gas bloating, headaches and pain in the back. Adierika helped right away. Now I eat sausage, bananas, pie, anything I want and never feel better. I sleep soundly all night and enjoy life."—Mrs. Mabel Schott.

If you are suffering from constipation, sleeplessness, sour stomach, and gas bloating, there is quick relief for you in Adierika. Many report action in thirty minutes after taking just one dose. Adierika gives complete action, clearing your bowel tract where ordinary laxatives do not even reach.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierika checks the growth of intestinal bacteria and colon bacilli."

Give your stomach and bowels a real cleansing with Adierika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments. Eckerd's, New Castle Drug Company.
